WRECKING BALL MAKES SHORT WORK OF BUILDING

Demolition at St. Anne's For Senior Housing

KINGSTON It's taken the better part of four years and more than a modicum of controversy but something's finally getting built at the St. Anne's site at Broadway and Orchard Street. ... A senior citizen housing complex.

Originally—back in 1971—the plan was to build a Grand Union supermarket on the site. Mayor Francis R. Koenig declared he would veto any such legislation, contending it would thwart development of a shopping center in Broadway East, less than a mile away.

The Common Council approved the legislation in the face of that threat and the mayor—in this case, acting mayor T. Robert Gallo, at the express wishes of Koenig—vetoed it.

More than two years went by until December of last year when the Kingston Housing Authority and the Urban Renewal Agency combined on a unique "package plan" whereby any developer who was willing to build in Broadway East would be given preference to build at St. Anne's.

The plan at St. Anne's had changed drastically—no more Grand Union—the new plan calls for the construction of 100 units of senior citizen housing in a six-story building.

Granada Builders Inc. of Port Ewen picked up the "package" but found themselves unable to carry out both ends of the agreement. Instead, the principals of Granada formed a new firm, Hurley Realty Inc. and will continue with plans to build a $1.5 million shopping plaza in Broadway East.

Granada Inc. has new principals, headed by Martin Aaron of Kingston and they've received the necessary federal approvals to proceed with the senior citizen complex. It will be federally subsidized.

Demolition of the three-story building on the St. Anne's property began earlier this week. The builders plan to retain the red brick building for office use.

Three Board Incumbents Retain Seats

Onteora's $7.6 Million Budget Defeated

By Carl Graham

BOICEVILLE

A heavy turnout of Onteora Central School District voters Wednesday night turned down a proposed $7.6 million budget, approved a plan to separate high school from junior high school facilities, and returned three incumbents to the board of education.

With more than 77 percent of the district's eligible voters turning out, the proposed 1975-76 budget was defeated, 1,610 to 1,151. At a brief meeting following the vote count, Donald Lawson, board of education president, named a committee of board members, teachers and administrators to study the budget and make recommendations to the board for future action.

Lawson named board members John Mower and Irene Motrie to serve on a ten-member committee with four teachers and an administrator from the district's four elementary schools and another four teachers and an administrator from the junior-senior high school. Teachers and administrators will be named later by Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools.

Lawson asked the committee to "make recommendations to the board by mid-July, to give the board a month to work on the budget before school opens." He said after the meeting that if the committee is able to come up with a decision earlier, the board will in turn act as soon as it is received and studied.

The proposition to appropriate $110,000 to separate high school from junior high school facilities in the Boiceville building was approved by a comfortable 1,702-989 vote. No date was announced for the beginning of renovations.

Lawson won another three years on the board by turning back challenger Barbara Black, 1,443 to 1,240. Incumbent Sam Mercer posted a nearly identical 1,452 to 1,258 win over challenger Domenic Castaldo.

The only close contest for a school board seat involved incumbent Edna Hoyt, a retired teacher, who was opposed by Gareth Church, a special education training specialist with Dutchess County BOCES. With the Olive-Marbletown, Woodstock and Hurley district returns in, Church was leading Mrs. Hoyt by a seemingly safe 1,135-946 margin, but the vote from the fourth and final Shandaken-Lexington district turned it around. Mrs. Hoyt polled 507 votes there to 59 for Church and won, 1,453 to 1,194. All three board terms begin July 1.

The heavy voter turnout, believed to be a record, saw 2,916 of the district's 3,742 eligible voters show up at the polls. Both percentage and total vote were even heavier than last year, when approximately two-thirds of the district's eligibles voted.

The proposal for a $7.6 million budget marked the second year in a row when district voters were faced with sizeable increases. The current budget figure is $6.55 million and the district operated under a $5.92 million budget in 1973-74.

The budget was the subject of controversy from the time it was announced. Dr. Jack Keough, the district's business administrator, called a press conference on May 20 to explain how the figures are received on Aug. 1, and that the problem was complicated this year by a reassessment now going on in the Town of Woodstock.

Two days later Lawson announced that the State Education Department had ordered the district to apply an anticipated surplus from this year's budget to reduce taxes for the 1975-76 school year. Lawson said Wednesday night that the current estimate is for about $327,000 to be carried forward.

Ford Hopes for Mideast Solution

BRUSSELS (UPI) — In a nonstop round of revolving-door diplomacy, President Ford explored major NATO problems with one allied leader after another today and said he hopes to have "some success" at breaking the Middle East stalemate before his European trip is over.

Ford offered no quick solutions—and got a hint from the Turks not to meddle too much in the Cyprus affair—when he opened his NATO summit visit with a round of one-on-one talks with leaders of the troubled Western alliance.

Related Story on page 32.

The black limousines rolled up to the well-guarded doors of Ford's U.S. Embassy residence all through the day, bringing yet another NATO government chief and another set of bodyguards to meet the President.

Two security men in green fatigue uniforms watched the residence through binoculars from a neighboring rooftop. Secret servicemen and Belgian police patrolled the walks outside.

Making his first visit to Europe as President, Ford stepped right into the role of peacemaker and troubleshooter by holding back-to-back meetings with Prime Ministers Constantine Caramanlis of Greece and Suleyman Demirel of Turkey, whose nations have been on the brink of war since last summer's Cyprus fighting. Ford offered America's good offices as an intermediary and quickly found out how tough the Cyprus problem can be.

"You cannot say progress was made in these meetings," Arthur Hartman, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, told newsmen after Ford met for 80 minutes each with Caramanlis and Demirel.

"The President expressed our desire to be as helpful as we can to move (Greece and Turkey) toward a peaceful solution" to the Cyprus crisis, Hartman said, but he offered no solution of his own.

Turkish sources said Demirel felt the Ford would only complicate the Cyprus issue by involving the United States too deeply in it. Demirel also complained about the U.S. embargo on arms sales to Turkey and Ford outlined his efforts to have Congress lift the ban.

Caramanlis met Ford first and was hardly out the door before Demirel drove up, accompanied by a new team of strapping six-foot bodyguards he acquired earlier this month after a young man punched him in the nose.

During a get-acquainted chat, Caramanlis told Ford he would be seeing Sadat in Athens and Ford casually passed along an informal message for the Egyptian leader, with whom he will be conferring in Salzburg, Austria, Sunday and Monday.

State Insurance Action May Solve MD Crisis

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — In a move that may avert a statewide job action by physicians, the State Insurance Department has approved a State Medical Society request to set up a corporation to issue medical malpractice insurance.

A spokesman for Gov. Hugh L. Carey Wednesday said the department had okayed the request, an option left open under the state's new malpractice law. Many doctors had expressed fears the rates would still jump unless the medical society itself offered the coverage.

Anesthesiologists end 28-day walkout in San Francisco. Story on page 5.

The action came amid swelling support for a physicians' strike in the state. Privately, many involved in the situation said the approval was likely to stem militancy of physicians worried about the rising costs of insurance protection.

Generally it was felt the approval would go a long way in soothing doctors angry that the recent compromise legislation did not go far enough.

"The approval for the corporation was given," the governor's spokesman said, "and we feel now that we've done all we can" in solving the crisis.

The State Medical Society's House of Delegates Sunday disapproved the state's new malpractice law, which would create a pool of private insurance companies to supply coverage.

The delegates, who went against the recommendation of their leadership, voted for the society to operate a corporation designed to supply malpractice insurance to physicians.

In some instances, such as the Schenectady County Medical Society, the local leadership voted to supply non-emergency medical care only if the medical society was not able to set up its own vehicle for coverage.

In other signs that a statewide action may not materialize, the Erie County Medical Society has said it would not support a strike and the local society in Tompkins County said it would abide by the new legislation for at least six months.

A spokesman for the State Health Department said, "We don't see any reason to panic. When the doctors get more information, we believe the crisis will be averted." The spokesman said fears that insurance rates would skyrocket under the new approach were unfounded.

While the physicians became more militant, the state legislature experienced a swelling tide of opposition to further malpractice changes. More than 50 joined in sponsoring a bill to revoke the license of a doctor who withheld services.

A spokesman for the New York State Hospital Association Wednesday said checks with various hospitals about the doctor situation indicate "there is a momentum building that will be difficult to stop."

He added that "hospitals are some of the largest single employers in many communities" and warned that a job action could take a heavy toll on some facilities. Latest available figures showed that 62 percent of the voluntary hospitals in the state operate at a deficit.

Assemblyman Thomas J. Culhane, D-Bronx, has introduced a bill that would revoke of license of a doctor "who arbitrarily, willfully or maliciously, refuses to treat a patient or practice his medical specialty."

More than 50 other assemblymen have joined in sponsoring the bill and there are indications of substantial support in the Senate.

50 Cows Killed, $150,000 Loss

Fire of undetermined origin raced through a huge dairy barn on Boice Mill Road in Kerhonkson early today, killing more than 50 cows and several calves. The wife of the owner, Mrs. Herman Dunn, said the monetary loss could run as high as $150,000 or more. Accord Fire Chief Lowell Baker said the blaze began in the upper section of the barn. Firemen from four departments were called to the scene at about 12:30 a.m. and some remained at the scene late this morning. Two firemen, who were not immediately identified, reportedly were injured while battling the flames which lit up the night sky. Sheriff's Department detectives are investigating.

April Index Way Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading business indicators, a sensitive barometer of future economic trends, recorded its biggest one month gain ever in April, the Commerce Department said today.

Using a revised format designed to discount the effects of inflation, the index surged 4.2 percent last month.

Eleven of 12 indicators which comprise the index increased. The money supply was the only indicator that failed to rise in April.

Last month's record rise followed a 1 percent increase in March, the first consecutive two month gain in a year. Prior to March, the index had declined for 11 straight months.

Since the index is valued as a guide to shifts in the economy, another month or two of upward movement would be "strong evidence" that the recession had hit bottom or would do so soon, a Commerce Department economist said.

Support Urged for Bills To Stop Information Toll

POUGHKEEPSIE — Marjorie Fiorino, president of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the National Federation of the Blind, has called for support for pending legislation to save free telephone information for New York staters.

"Our organization is particularly interested in this legislation because it will prevent discrimination and hardship to handicapped people who cannot use a telephone directory," Mrs. Fiorino said. "However, the average person with a residence telephone will also be affected by these bills."

The legislation to which she referred has been drafted in response to a recent decision of the Public Service Commission authorizing charges for directory assistance after six free "information" calls each month. After the sixth call, each additional call, including calls for long distance information, will cost subscribers 10 cents. The new system is scheduled to go into effect Sept. 1.

Bills 6601 (assembly) and 5431 (senate) would prevent any direct or indirect charge for directory service. The assembly passed its bill this week.

Mrs. Fiorino called for strong individual action in support of these bills. "Unfortunately this issue has not been widely publicized," she said, "but there is something we can still do to avoid this addition to our already high telephone rates. Get in touch with your senator. This bill is scheduled to come to the floor soon. We must see that it is passed."

Y Camp Rechristened

KINGSTON

The Kingston and Ulster County YMCA has rechristened its day camp in Shokan Camp Seewackamano after a chief of the Esopus Indians.

The camp is ready for another year of youth camping, family picnics, and group picnics, announced Dr. Richard Schleiter, Y Camp Committee chairman.

Chief Seewackamano was a sachem of the Esopus Indians, and his name along with other names of local origin will be used at the camp this summer to add to the Indian lore program. The weekends of June 7 and June 14 have been designated as days when anyone can go and enjoy use of the camp. A family recreation program is available to those who wish to become members.

The camp is also open to groups looking for a picnic site or overnight program, and the Y day camp will offer four two-week sessions. The first will begin June 30.

Local Apple Firm Cited for Waste

NEW YORK CITY

An Ulster County company was one of two firms ordered recently by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to stop excessive pollutant discharges into the Hudson River.

Hudson Valley Apple Products Company of Milton was ordered by Gerald M. Hansler, EPA regional administrator, to take appropriate steps to reduce the levels of a number of pollutants being discharged into the river. Effluents were in excess of limitations during varying periods last winter for fecal coliform bacteria, oxygen depleters, suspended solids, acidity-alkalinity, oil and grease, he said.

Hansler also noted that an on-site visit in late January by EPA inspectors from the Facilities Technology Division noted the existence of two outfalls where only one was reported and monitored by the company. EPA ordered the company to either cease the discharge of pollutants from one of the two existing discharge points or to properly report and sample the discharges. The company has already begun taking steps to comply with the order, he noted.

The other firm cited by EPA was Capital City Products Company of West New York, N.J., cited for discharging a total of 13,938 pounds of suspended solids over a 24-hour sampling day when authorized to discharge only 1,150 pounds.

Ellenville Voters to Decide Fate of Tax Hike

ELLENVILLE Residents of the Ellenville Central School District will go to the polls next Wednesday to decide the fate of a proposed $5,242,603 budget that could raise taxes by as much as $20 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Voting will take place Wednesday from 12 noon to 8 p.m. at the old gymnasium at Ellenville High School. Voters will also elect three members to the Board of Education.

The proposed budget for 1975-76 is about 7.5 percent higher than last year's $4,878,956 package. And the proposed new budget is almost $1 million higher than the $4,294,351 budget proposed for the 1973-74 school year.

One of the largest increases in the proposed budget for next year is an approximate $81,000 hike for teachers' salaries. The Ellenville faculty is in the third year of a three-year contract package.

In addition, employee benefits are up about $71,000 and transportation expenses show an approximate $35,000 increase.

Of the $5.2 million proposed budget, 72.27 percent—or $3,799,314—is to be raised by local taxes. State aid will account for 22.76 percent of the budget, or $1,177,488.

Despite the projected budget increase, the overall hike is less this year than in previous years. The 1974-75 budget, for instance, was about $584,000 higher than the spending package for 1973-74. The proposed budget for 1975-76 is $363,647 higher than the district's current operating budget.

School district officials have also pointed out that 40 percent of the amount to be raised by local taxes—about $1,520,000—must be paid by New York City for the property it owns at Rondout Reservoir in the Town of Wawarsing.

KINGSTON James Rühle, assistant director of the Catskill Study Commission, spoke of the commission's determination to chart a course for the future of the Catskills, developing a critical areas plan with regard to such things as agricultural lands, natural hazards (flood plains), unique areas (historical and architectural sites worthy of designation) among others. The commission is prodding localities to recognize areas of critical significance, he said.

Considerations include preservation of natural resources, preservation of the aesthetic and public service costs, among others.

He said that there is tremendous pressure to have the towns do their own planning but that the final responsibility is at the regional level. Rühle indicated that if there is any disagreement between the commission and individual areas that there will have to be give and take.

The land use plan for Woodstock was described in an illustrated talk by Ted Lippincott, a member of the Ulster County and Woodstock Planning Boards.

He showed various maps depicting such things as land form, slope percentages, diversity of soils, precipitation, vegetation, water, agricultural capability and land use recommendations.

The information was compiled by students earning a masters degree in regional planning.

The study, which cost $12,000 was made possible through the financial support of both the Town of Woodstock and the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

'Second Chance' In Rondout

KYSERIKE

Rondout Valley Central School District voters are being given a "second chance" today to approve a proposed $6.7 million budget that they rejected three weeks ago.

The polls at the high school will remain open until 9 p.m. In addition to the $6.7 million budget, voters will be asked to cast ballots on two other separate propositions, both of which were also defeated May 7. One would authorize the board to spend up to $18,500 each for the purchase of two 66-passenger school buses; the other proposition would authorize an additional $1,500 toward the purchase of a 15-passenger bus.

Those two propositions were solidly defeated by the voters on May 7. The first was rejected by a 701-447 margin and the $1,500 appropriation lost by a 644-485 margin.

The budget itself was rejected by a 650-501 margin; the relative closeness of the vote apparently contributed to the board's decision to resubmit the proposed spending package without any changes. Following the vote on May 7, board president Wayne Kelder said he didn't believe the sparse voter turnout represented "a true cross-section of the district."

The proposed budget—which would finance district operations for the 1975-76 school year—is about $450,000 higher than the budget approved by voters last year. Board officials have pointed out that better than 50 percent of the proposed increase covers mandated increases in salaries and benefits for the district's teachers.

Close Albany High To Soothe Students

ALBANY (UPI) — Administrators cancelled today's classes at Albany High School to provide students with a cooling-off period.

Wednesday, a brawl, described by students as racial in nature, broke out inside and outside the high school complex and sent four persons to the hospital for treatment.

Students told newsmen trouble apparently had been brewing since a disturbance involving blacks and whites at an off-campus baseball game Sunday.

It was reported that a group of "drinking and smoking" whites had attacked two interracial couples. Later a black youth was arrested.

School board spokesman Chris Carpenter said another student was suspended because of the incident.

The suspended student returned to school Wednesday.

Schuler Seeks RR Amendment

ALBANY State Transportation Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler says that proposed federal legislation designed to create jobs while upgrading the nation's railroads should be amended to insure that railroads and geographic areas most in need receive assistance.

In a written statement to the Commerce Committee and the Labor and Public Welfare Committee of the U.S. Senate, Schuler strongly endorsed the objectives of the proposed legislation but noted that as presently written, it authorizes distribution of grants and loans to the various railroads "without distinction as to where the funds are to be spent."

Schuler said that the needs of the northeast, in terms of increased employment and improvement of long-neglected railroad facilities, are enormous. "However, we fear that the stronger and better organized profitable railroads would receive a disproportionate share of the authorized funds," he said.

By offering loans to finance purchase of materials, supplies and equipment, the proposed bills preclude participation by bankrupt railroads because their creditors will not allow them to incur any more debt, Schuler pointed out. He also expressed concern that smaller but non-bankrupt railroads in New York and the northeast could be overlooked or neglected when the large, profitable western railroads apply for the bulk of federal funds.

These shortcomings in the proposed legislation can be overcome, he said, by including a formula for the apportionment of funds that incorporates the unemployment factor and the need for rail improvements.

Schuler called for an apportionment formula under which half of payments to a state would be in ratio to the unemployment in that state compared to national figures; one-quarter would be in the ratio which total miles of railroad line in the state bears to the total miles of rail lines in all states, and one-quarter in the ratio by which the miles of line owned by bankrupt corporations in the state bears to the total miles of rail line owned by bankrupt corporations in all states.

Schuler urged that provision be made for adequate financing of purchase of materials so that bankrupt carriers can participate in the program. He noted that over 75 percent of the railroad mileage in New York is operated by bankrupt corporations.

Student on Shooting Rampage, Two Are Killed, 13 Wounded

BRAMPTON, Ont. (UPI) — At 16, Michael Slobodian said he was fed up with life. Wednesday he entered the Centennial Secondary School with two rifles concealed in a guitar case and went directly to a first-floor washroom.

He had sworn in a suicide note to kill two teachers who had reprimanded him for skipping classes and "anyone who got in his way." He wasted little time in carrying out his vow.

John Slinger, 17, who stumbled unaware into the washroom, was the first victim. He staggered into the hallway and collapsed — dead.

Slobodian, firing randomly at students with two rifles, then approached the art room where he shot and killed Margaret Evelyn Wright, 25, one of the teachers on his death list.

After wounding another student nearby, he committed suicide with a single shot in the head.

Before he died, Slobodian killed two persons and injured 13 students — nine seriously.

"The gunman ran along a hallway, opening classroom doors and shooting at everything in sight," one student told reporters. "Panic erupted throughout the whole place."

Police Chief Doug Burrows confirmed Mrs. Wright was one of the two teachers named in the note, which was found at the gunman's home, but would not identify the other teacher. Police would not release the text of the note, but Burrows said it indictated he planned to harm the two teachers and "anyone else who got in his way."

Slobodian's sister, Donna, told a newsman, however, that in his note Slobodian vowed to "eliminate" Mrs. Wright and science teacher D.R. Bronson. The teachers had reprimanded him for skipping classes, she said.

Bronson was in another part of the school at the time of the shootings and was not injured.

Donna said her brother wrote that "he was fed up with life" and intended to commit suicide.

Neighbors described Slobodian, the youngest of four children, as a "loner" and a karate expert who didn't have much time for girls.

"We used to call him 'Priest,'" said a one-time classmate. "He always acted in such an aloof, solitary sort of way."

One 16-year-old blonde girl said Slobodian confronted her and her girlfriend in the hall during the height of the rampage.

"We heard shots," she said. "We thought they were firecrackers. Then the gunman came around the corner. He looked at my girlfriend and me, then raised one of his guns and fired at us. He was about 20 feet away. I don't know how he missed."

She said they ran to an art room and hid. "Out in the corridor we could hear kids yelling 'get out, get out' and somebody was screaming 'get help, I'm hit, I'm hit,'" she said.

"It was unbelievable."

Anesthesiologists End 28-Day Walkout

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Striking San Francisco anesthesiologists have ended their crippling 28-day walkout over zooming malpractice insurance rates, but a similar crisis is building in New York state.

Dr. John A. Driscoll, president of the San Francisco Medical Society, said he expects other California physicians who joined the boycott out of sympathy to return to work and said normal surgery could resume by Monday.

"We've been in constant contact with the doctors all over the state," he said, "and I'm certain they'll resume services. It just so happens our premiums expired first, and so we are setting the pattern."

The anesthesiologists, vanguard of the doctors' protest that has spread across the nation, voted unanimously Wednesday to return to work under a new state law providing short-term malpractice insurance while the legislature works on a long-run solution.

However, in New York state, an increasing number of doctors have said they will treat only emergency cases next week. According to sources, resolution of the California problem might set a pattern for other states.

The California anesthesiologists refused their services in all but life-or-death cases and brought some hospitals to the point of bankruptcy. They began their strike May 1 when faced with insurance hikes of up to 400 percent — in many cases annual premiums of more than $18,000. Their average annual salary in California is $41,000.

More than 100 hospitals in California were affected by the strike, losing about $1.5 million daily. About 13,000 hospital workers have been laid off. And some patients have had to face the discomfort of being transferred from affected hospitals to those able to provide services.

The California bill offers short-term malpractice coverage at an estimated cost of between $1,000 and $2,000 for each policy for the next seven months.

It sets up "pools" of insurance firms, but doctors would be faced with "balloon" payments in December for what underwriters call "in-curved but unreported claims."

Doctors had demanded a rollback of the new malpractice premiums to the Jan. 1 rates and the seven-month cost falls within their argument for a "reasonable" hike, Driscoll indicated.

As for the possible "balloon" payments, he said: "The figures I've seen would go up to a maximum of $9,000."

In short, he said, this maximum — plus the cost of the first seven months — would be no more than two-thirds of what the insurance companies asked.

Lash LaRue Convicted

JONESBORO, Ga. (UPI) — Alfred Lash LaRue, an actor in many western movies, was convicted on a drug charge Wednesday despite his contention he traded his Bible for marijuana to help a teen-ager find religion.

A Clayton County jury found him guilty of possession of marijuana and Superior Court Judge Harold R. Banke sentenced him to 12 months' probation with the condition that he pay a $350 fine.

LaRue was found innocent of possession of a prescription pill without a prescription.

He was arrested Sept. 26 on a public drunkenness charge, but a subsequent search of his car turned up the drugs.

LaRue testified Tuesday the drugs belonged to two teen-age hitchhikers, a brother and sister, he picked up outside of Nashville, Tenn. He said when the boy pulled out the drugs he began preaching to the two about religion and the consequences of marijuana.

LaRue said the boy then recalled a deathbed statement by his grandmother saying, "Some day a man would speak to him in the name of Jesus Christ and he would recognize him as having authority and he would do as he would say."

LaRue said he then exchanged a Bible for the drugs and dropped the couple off in Dalton, Ga. He said he tried to get rid of the drugs at a rest area on the expressway, but as he was getting the drugs from his truck a police car pulled up and he said he decided "it would be a difficult story for someone to believe."

He testified he then stuffed some marijuana in his pocket and drove on. He claimed he "never saw" the prescription pill.

District Attorney James Bradley in his closing arguments called the story "unreasonable" and said he didn't know how anyone could believe that story.

"That was one of his better performances," Bradley said, referring to LaRue's testimony.

Daley's Son Married a Month Early

CHICAGO (UPI) — John Patrick Daley, son of Mayor Richard Daley, and Mary Lou Briatta were wed Wednesday, a month ahead of schedule, in an small and unannounced church ceremony.

The mayor has described Miss Briatta, 28, as a "fine Catholic girl" and a "college graduate" who "does a lot of painting." She has been employed as a court reporter in Chicago's Juvenile Court and helped with the mayor's successful re-election campaign this year.

Chicago newspapers have described Miss Briatta's father, Louis, as a crime syndicate gambling boss, an identification which has pained the mayor.

"It was a low blow," Daley said of the report, "but then you can never go as low as a newspaper."

The ceremony was originally scheduled for June 26. It was moved forward without public announcement or explanation.

The bride wore a flowing white gown. The 28-year-old groom — the last bachelor among Daley's four sons — wore a black cutaway.

The wedding ceremonies at Nativity of Our Lord Church, on the South Side near the Daley home, were attended by their families and 200 people. The newlyweds left the church in a black limousine and were driven to a reception in a posh 26th-floor suite at the Conrad Hilton Hotel used by Presidents Nixon, Johnson and Kennedy.

Members of the mayor's bodyguard detail barred newsmen from the wedding and reception.

Rail Travel

Sometimes it takes Americans longer to wake up to the realities of life; longer, for instance, than our European cousins. The case of the nation's railroads is a good example. For too long we have preferred travel by air, bus or car, neglecting the railways so that most have fallen into disrepair and bankruptcy. In transporting our goods, we have opted for trucking, thanks partly to a powerful highway trust, and have paid more for items in the store because of this. Now, because of joint pressure from the petroleum crunch, and the high cost of goods, Congress is moving toward helping flagging U.S. railroads.

One method of consideration is direct aid, amounting to $2 or $3 billion to prop up the roads in the northeast and midwest, with additional funds made available to railroads in other sections of the country at a later time. The lessons of the bankrupt Penn Central and Rock Islands were learned the hard way.

Another method under consideration is a semi-nationalization with the federal government taking over the ownership of roadbeds and track, maintaining them in good condition and charging the lines for their use. This would allow the various lines to funnel revenue back into upgrading rolling stock and improving service.

Which plan gets congressional approval will be decided within the year, but an efficient nationwide rail system is a realistic answer to the energy problem. Maybe we'll catch up to those Europeans yet.

Resettlement

Establishment of a national advisory committee to oversee resettlement of some 130,000 Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees in the United States is a gratifying development. Among other things this will have the desirable effect of emphasizing that dealing with the refugees is not strictly a military operation.

It was necessary, in the first instance, that response to the problem should be carried out by the armed forces. They had the facilities, not only for assuring the refugees' safety but also for transporting them and providing interim housing facilities.

Now it is of importance to affirm that the American people as a whole recognize and accept responsibility for getting the refugees permanently settled in our society. The sooner this can be done, the better. The advisory committee headed by John Eisenhower will help significantly to smooth the way.

Berry's World

"There's something I want to tell you. I'm bankrupt — but only morally, that is!"

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The select senate committee, which is investigating the CIA and FBI, has imposed airtight security on its operations. We have learned, nevertheless, that the committee has been riven by dissent, has hired few real investigators and has scarcely scratched the surface of the CIA-FBI scandals.

So serious is the situation that a responsible senior committee worker, who will be fired if he is caught, has composed an explicit memo for us on the problems.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, "is under a delusion he will be able to conclude the probe within the next few months," declares the handwritten report. "He lacks investigative staff to do it and has no way of knowing if the preliminary information given is either accurate or complete."

"If it is not, it means the committee will have to start from scratch again, with competent investigators to find out what the true facts are."

The memo complains that the committee has virtually ignored the military and anti-drug agencies it also is supposed to investigate. "The main preliminary work done so far has been in reference to the FBI and CIA with virtually nothing else being done concerning the rest of the committee mandate," states the memo.

At "virtually every step of the almost nonexistent investigation," it concludes, "Church has bent over backward to please the CIA."

Church is one of the most able, conscientious members of the Senate. But we have confirmed, at least, that some of his committee colleagues have complained to their staffs that Church, in his zeal to be fair-minded, has sided most often with the under-the-rug views of Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and John Tower, R-Tex.

They have taken a stern stand against the senators who favor an open as possible probe. Those who can be counted in this category are Sens. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., Gary Hart, D-Colo., Phil Hart, D-Mich., Walter Mondale, D-Minn., and Richard Schweiker, R-Pa.

Friends of the committee have insisted to us that sweetness, light and unanimity have prevailed in the secret sessions. But this ambience apparently can be attributed to the traditional Senate civility.

At one tightly closed meeting, for example, Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., strongly urged that any details of CIA assassination plots should be kept from the American public, our sources report. Another source said Morgan, after speaking about the assassinations, left it up in the air whether the facts should be suppressed.

There have been complaints that Church and Tower confer secretly on a wide range of subjects with the CIA but don't fully share their information with other senators.

Finally Gary Hart and Schweiker devoted a recent Saturday to a visit to CIA headquarters. They paid a call on Deputy Director Carl Duckett, the chief technologist, whose staff gave them a briefing.

Nervous CIA officials spread whispers that the visit had to do with reports that the bullet-headed Duckett would soon be named the new CIA director. Actually, Duckett stayed with the senators only a few moments.

The Church committee, meanwhile, has had trouble recruiting crack investigators. A recent bid was made to hire Washington's primo private eye, Richard Bast, who has been beating the FBI for 15 years.

Committee aide Patrick Shea secretly contacted the detective, explaining: "We need some top-flight investigators."

Shea, who said he was speaking for staff director William Miller, invited Bast to hire "a couple other people that you trusted . . . who would be supervised by you."

Describing the work, Shea said: "There are four task forces right now — domestic intelligence, military (intelligence), technological intelligence, and then 'command and control' which focuses largely on the White House."

Shea stressed, however, that "it's not going to be a witch hunt. We're trying to find information and material which show good law enforcement and good intelligence operations were conducted . . . It goes both ways."

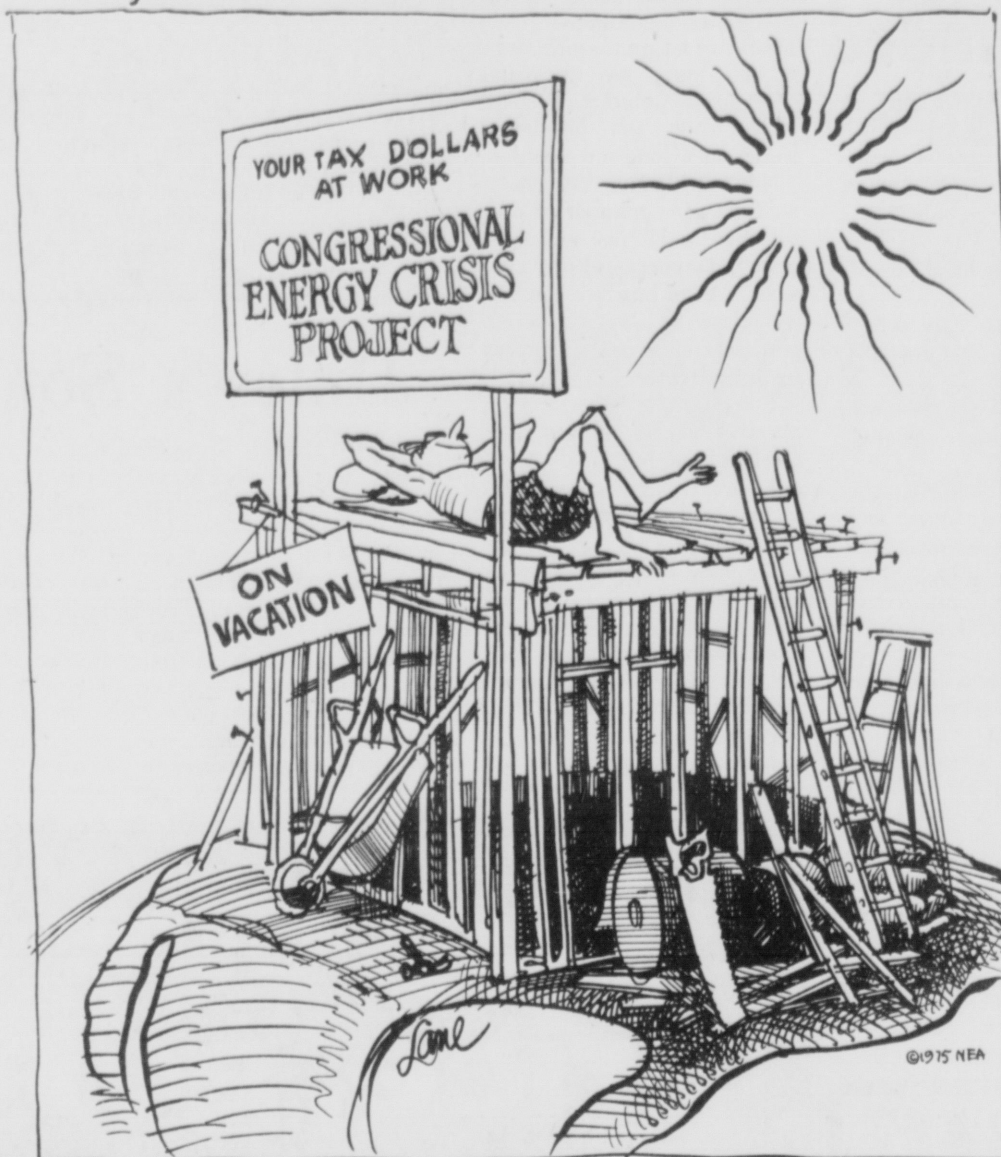

Bast made a follow-up visit to the committee's heavily guarded office where he found a Capitol policeman logging every visitor. The police, Bast noted, aren't above suspicion as informants for the intelligence community. "You don't get heavy informers coming to see you with a setup like that," Bast told us.

He also learned that the committee had been working on staff credentials for two months. "That's something that could be done in two days," marveled Bast.

So he told us: "I decided they were mostly a bunch of pussycats and some were interested in a coverup. I don't want my name linked to that kind of investigation."

Footnote: Senator Church declined comment, but a spokesman rigidly defended the committee as "moving along on course." He said the charge that the probe is "limited to the FBI and CIA is 'utterly wrong.' Moreover, he said, when more investigators are needed they will be brought in. At present, he said, the need is for skilled lawyers to question witnesses who already have been identified. There is always some dissent in every group, he said, but "so far we've avoided splits. We've been able to show unanimity."

Why fix the roof when the sun is shining?

On the Right

Thunder Is Heard From the Right

By William F. Buckley Jr.

Last Wednesday, meeting with President Ford and his political advisers and discussing 1976, Senator William Brock gave his views of problem posed by American Conservatives, many of whom are mutinously dissatisfied with the performance of the Ford Administration. Senator Brock's predictions are altogether succinct. If, he said, President Ford's ratings are high in the national polls, he will not face opposition from his right wing. If they are not, he will.

Does Senator Brock mean: If President Ford's ratings are high nationally? Or does he mean: If they are high with Republicans? It does, of course, make a difference, and there is a subtle connection between that difference and the big event of the Conservative season, which is the publication of Mr. William Rusher's The Making of the New Majority Party.

A word about the author. He is the publisher of National Review magazine (as such, my colleague). He is a graduate of Princeton and of the Harvard Law School. Indeed, he founded the Harvard Young Republican Club, and as a practicing lawyer in a behemoth New York firm was active in Republican politics, even as he is today. He traveled the road from enthusiasm for Eisenhower, to enthusiasm for Goldwater, thus establishing that you don't stop learning when you leave college, rather the contrary. He did a year or so as special counsel for a Senate investigating committee before going to National Review in the mid-fifties. He has written other books, and is familiar to a large audience in virtue of his anchor role in the television series, The Advocates. He was among the planners who brought about the nomination of Barry Goldwater in 1964, and it is his utterly settled conviction, looking about him now, that the Republican Party is through. He desires a new party to replace it.

Lots of people desire new parties, and are safely permitted to dream their dreams undisturbed. But Mr. Rusher's analysis, as given in his book, is to be distinguished from the pamphleteer's passion for a new party. The book is, to quote the urbane Mr. Robert Novak, a datum "of major importance." Because he "has written a cogent and persuasive argument for a new Independence Party bearing no resemblance to the failed new party efforts of this century but rather seeking to recall the nascent Republican Party of a century ago." It is Rusher's conviction that the atrophy of the Republican Party is terminal. There is nothing, really, that can bring it back to life. Although conservative Republicans exercise something of a veto power over whom the Party nominates (thus the failures of Nelson Rockefeller), the liberals in the Party exercise something of an ideological veto. The result is that "the Democrats, with a congressional spectrum reaching from Ron Dellums to Sonny Montgomery, have stood for just about everything, while the Republicans in their generality have responded by standing for practically nothing."

What is needed, Mr. Rusher says, is that old re-alignment about which there has been so much tentative talk in the past decades. Two figures bring the problem to the front. The first is George Wallace. There is no denying that Wallace appeals at one and the same time to what one would call a conservative constituency, and yet to a constituency that, rather than vote Republican, votes heavily Democratic. When George McGovern was nominated, that proved too much for the Wallaceites. And indeed McGovern himself attributes the size of Nixon's victory to the massive defections of the Wallace minority.

The other critical figure is Ronald Reagan. He is accepted by conservative Republicans and by Wallace Democrats as the leader of the conservative wing of American politics. His special qualities as evangelist for conservative policies are enhanced by his practical experience as a successful governor, for eight years, of the largest state in the union. What would happen if Ronald Reagan challenged Gerald Ford in the Republican primary and beat him? But—more important still—what if, at the same time, he accepted the designation of a new party—the Independence Party—and ran under its sponsorship, with the explicit endorsement of George Wallace?

You would have, Mr. Rusher concludes, an authentic and on the whole, ideologically viable majority, wedding the traditional conservatism of the Republicans with the "social conservatism"—patriotism, law and order, an end to judicial tyranny over the schools—of the Wallaceites. The Republican left would vote with the Democrats (unless they went crazy again, as in 1972); and the resulting vote would be, Mr. Rusher carefully analyzes, something on the order of 55-45 Independence Party over Democratic Party.

The thought is exciting; indeed, exhilarating. The book may prove to be a formative catalyst in American political history. It will unquestionably be read closely, and widely. And when it begins to snow in New Hampshire, it will all depend on two data: Mr. Reagan's appetite for the fight, and Mr. Ford's showing at the polls.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Linus Pauling's Practical Medicine

MENLO PARK, Calif. — To most of us Linus Pauling is the Vitamin C man, the guy who says if you take enough of it it'll cut down the number of colds you get or snap you out of them quicker. Although many lay people and some doctors agree with him, much of the medical profession isn't having any of it.

As often as not Pauling is excused from the discussion as a brilliant man in his field — a Nobel Laureate in chemistry — but something of a good-intentioned nut in medicine. In a society which often gives greater weight to formal credentials than to the substance of an argument, you can flummox people off the point by observing that Pauling isn't a medical doctor.

Neither was Pasteur, which raises the question of what part pure science can play in the art of medicine. Pasteur, a chemist, revolutionized it, although only after the doctors tried to lynch him.

Pauling, another chemist, may not have revolutionized medicine again, but over the last 30 years or so his work with blood, antibodies, proteins and anesthesia has won him a string of medals and prizes awarded by medical societies here and in Europe. His work with sickle cell anemia led to our first understanding of its nature and that of hereditary molecular disease.

He has credentials enough, a second Nobel prize for peace aside, but what is fascinating is comparing his approach to Vitamin C to that of so much of medicine in developing a new therapy. It's the difference between science and intuition.

While there are doctors who are also scientists, frequently what medicine does when its looking for a drug is to keep trying one substance after another until it hits one that seems to work.

Pauling operates from the other end. He and the many others who've been working on Vitamin C didn't pop it in their mouths and then decide they felt better. They developed the theory that concludes with the proposition Vitamin C ought to work, so let's try it and see if it does.

In developing the theory, he observed that only a few animals, among which are man and his primate cousins, need Vitamin C or ascorbic acid in their diets. Other species synthesize it. Biochemistry had already established the fact that cells, after a certain number of generations, lose their capacity to manufacture nutrients which they can more easily get from their environment. Evolution is irreversible, however. Once the capacity is lost it can't be regained even if, for instance, the environment no longer yields plentiful amounts of ascorbic acid.

This caused Pauling to hypothesize that man had, like his simian brethren, evolved in a Vitamin C-rich environment, and then, having lost the power to synthesize it within himself, fell into a permanent condition of deficiency as a result of changing his eating habits and moving away to other climes. From there the next step was to read the literature on animal nutrition to establish the ratio of body size to Vitamin C usage among species which still manufacture the substance themselves and among apes, who, while they have lost the capacity, still live off a Vitamin C-rich diet.

This chain of reasoning takes you to the proposition that the government's recommended daily allowance may be as little as one-fiftieth of what's needed to sustain good health. Of what we don't know because so little effort is devoted to the study of what's possible that most of mankind runs around slightly under par with clinically undetected low-grade infections. A recent study conducted here at the Linus Pauling Institute of Science and Medicine gives evidentiary weight to this idea. It indicates that people who supplement their diets with very high amounts of ascorbic acid, three plus grams a day, have significantly low white blood cell counts. (The white blood cells, for those who've forgotten their high school hygiene courses, are the guys who eat up the bad germs. Also, other studies have shown that Vitamin C helps white blood cells to do their job better. This gives rise to the possibility that Vitamin C increases cellular health, thus diminishing the need for white blood cells, or makes white blood cells more efficient.)

Pauling, and the many others who are working in this vein, have also developed theories as to the part that Vitamin C, or the absence of it, plays in mental disease and a number of other disorders including cancer. There are even some case histories of persons dying of the disease which suggest that massive amounts of the vitamin abate the pain and at least briefly arrest its progress.

It's far too soon to tell about that. Again, what's important here is that Pauling and his associates have worked out the beginnings of a coherent theory based on a biochemical knowledge which looks forward, not to excruciating and costly therapies of little promise, but to a gentle system of treatment by which the body cures itself through its own mechanisms.

The merits of the Vitamin C hypothesis are persuasive, but not yet proven. Every wise layman will inform himself and make his own decision. But however the discussion is concluded, Linus Pauling emerges, not as an old geezer hipped on an eccentricity, but as one who has instructed us in how we must revamp our research institutions.

"There is not one chair of theoretical medicine in the United States," he says, and after seeing what theory and pure science can do with Vitamin C, we can appreciate what a blindfolded and gimmick-loving pragmatism can do to the healing arts.

Carey Considering Agency to Aid NYC

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh L. Carey has revealed he is considering creation of a new borrowing agency to help attack New York City's budget problems.

Although the governor was reluctant to discuss details at an impromptu news conference Wednesday, his plan is to move the city out of the high-cost short term borrowing market to longer range bonding and to provide guidance in reshaping the city's budget-making procedures.

New York Mayor Abraham D. Beame, rebuffed several times by Republican senators to answer his pleas for help in closing a reported $641 million deficit, was prepared today to unveil details of his proposed $12.8 billion spending plan. Beame had asked the state to provide a guarantee of credit to avoid the city from defaulting on an estimated $3 billion in outstanding debt over the next few months.

Carey, without going into details of his proposal, said one of the concepts under consideration would involve creation of an agency to oversee borrowing and possibly float bonds necessary to keep the city operating.

Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson, equally reluctant to discuss specifics of the citizens group's recommendations, said the proposal "is an approach which certainly should be explored."

Carey, following a meeting with a four-member citizens panel appointed last week to act as an intermediary in solving the city's budget problem, said any solution would involve the active participation of "the governments of New York City, the state and the federal level."

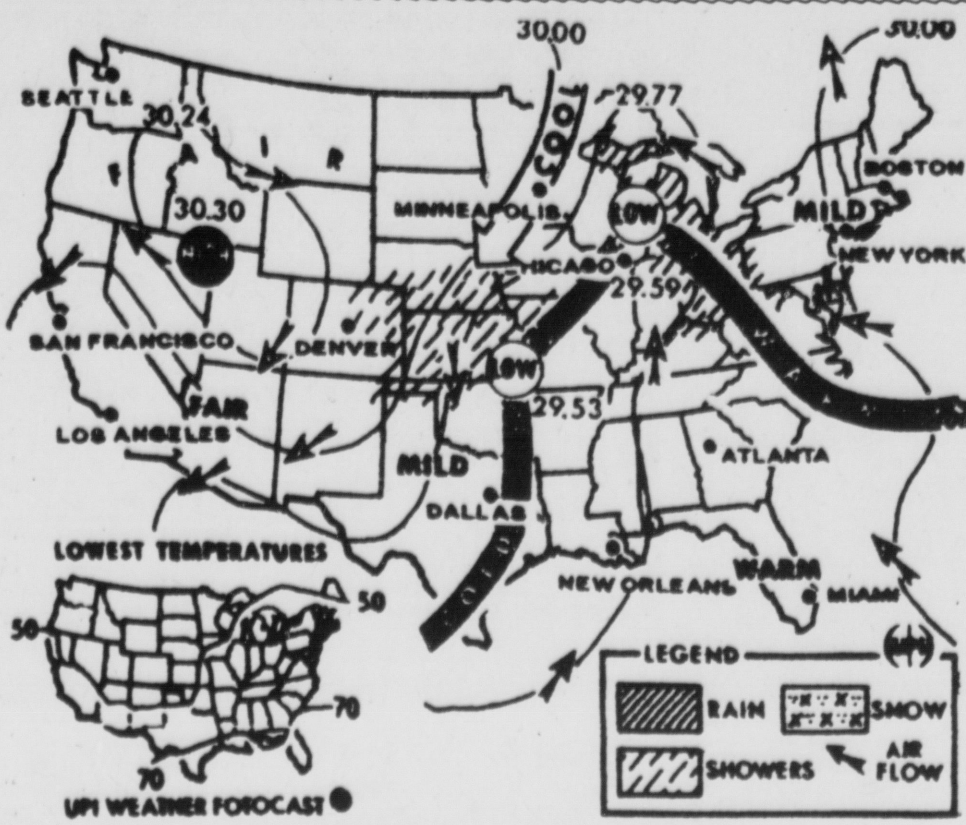

Asked how quickly a solution could be attained, he said, "It could begin now and it could take as long as several years to work out."

Carey indicated his plan, which he said would remain in the "outline form and a matter of discussion" until all parties involved in untangling the city's fiscal problems were in agreement, would be presented to Beame "forthwith."

Carey likened the complexity of the city's financial woes to that of the Urban Development Corp., and said the citizens panel was serving a function similar to that of Richard Ravitch, a New York City builder appointed by the governor to find a solution to the UDC problem.

"You might multiply Ravitch by four," Carey said.

Details Asked on Oehler's

HURLEY The Hurley Town Board will ask the owners of Oehler's Mountain Lodge for specific information on their facility, aimed at town purchase of the property for a recreation park perhaps later this summer.

The town board met in special session Wednesday night and on the motion of councilman Walter J. Rose directed Town Clerk Patricia Glass to write Oehler's asking for a specific inventory of facilities and of land with a detailed survey map and a firm price to be submitted to the town board prior to its July 28 regular meeting.

A figure of $97,500 has been mentioned for the property. The board also took action on a continuing controversy, the Berchenko property off Withtree Road. The town building inspector has accused Dr. Gary Berchenko of using a portion of his property for "soil mining." Attorneys for Berchenko say he is digging a pond.

The town's consulting engineers, Brinnier and Laros, were called in and advised that a pond was feasible and that Berchenko should be allowed to continue but under strict supervision of town and county (health) officials.

The board, however, appeared to reject the advice of its consulting engineers Wednesday night when it ordered its attorney, Robert MacKinnon, to meet with the Zoning Board of Appeals to review the possibility of bringing formal charges against Berchenko.

The Divorces . . . Testimony Typical

Editor's Note—In the third and concluding article of a three-part series on divorce, a lawyer and a judge give their views of the legal mechanism and the cost of a divorce.

By Lynn Mulvaney

Is there such a thing as a typical divorce case? Hardly.

Court testimony shows that the real root of trouble seldom surfaces in the courtroom. That seemingly superficial questions and answers are merely tools of the lawyers, their clients. They are a means of expediting the termination of a relationship that is no longer satisfactory to one or the other or both.

A case in point is that of a young wife who told the judge that her husband repeatedly stayed out until 3 to 4 a.m. She explained that her husband told her he and a friend were building a racing car.

"Now, as a result of this, did this cause you to become nervous and lose sleep? . . . lose weight?"

"Yes," she replied.

Calling her husband to the stand, the judge asked, "Did your wife tell the truth?"

"Yes, I have no feeling for my wife."

"Do you feel divorce is the best thing for you and your wife?"

"Yes."

"Is the racing car finished?" the judge asked.

"Almost."

If the change in the divorce law has made it a lot easier for couples to obtain a divorce, there are some signs that a few judges are remaining tough (not many). In the March term of Supreme Court here three petitions for divorce were denied.

Just recently a judge, upon hearing testimony from a woman who said she was afraid of her husband because he threatened her with a gun, questioned her and her attorney further because he felt that insufficient evidence had been submitted.

It was then revealed that the women had never been assaulted in any way, gun or otherwise, and that she had only been threatened once.

A pretty redhead married in 1970 told of her husband who wasn't working and who had a girlfriend. The young woman had no children but was pregnant before her husband left her.

"What happened to the pregnancy?" the judge asked.

"I had the child aborted," she replied matter-of-factly.

One man complained that the beds were not made, the meals were not ready . . . that his wife had another man.

One woman told the court her husband drove her to drink and that she had no sex life.

Reminiscent of "True Confessions" . . . ? soap operas . . . ? something unreal, something that doesn't happen here?

It happened, in Ulster County in 1974, when 476 marriages were dissolved. And, it's happening again in 1975, as the waiting list for divorces grows longer.

Only about one percent of the divorces are contested and usually over periferal action such as support and custody of children, according to Supreme Court Justice John L. Larkin.

It is almost a no-fault situation, he said, reflecting on the fact that when the liberalized divorce law came into being in the late 1960s, that older persons got divorces on good grounds — years of separation.

Now, he said, the younger ones, on the pill, and with no kids, are coming in.

"Suppose you deny them a divorce? he asks. "Nothing is going to change because the problems they still have exist."

Justice Larkin said that if there is the slightest chance that one or both does not want a divorce however, then he delays granting the divorce in order to have more time to study the proof.

Suggesting that often another prospective spouse is standing in the wings, Justice Larkin said that by not granting a divorce when husband and wife want one, often even more lives are ruined.

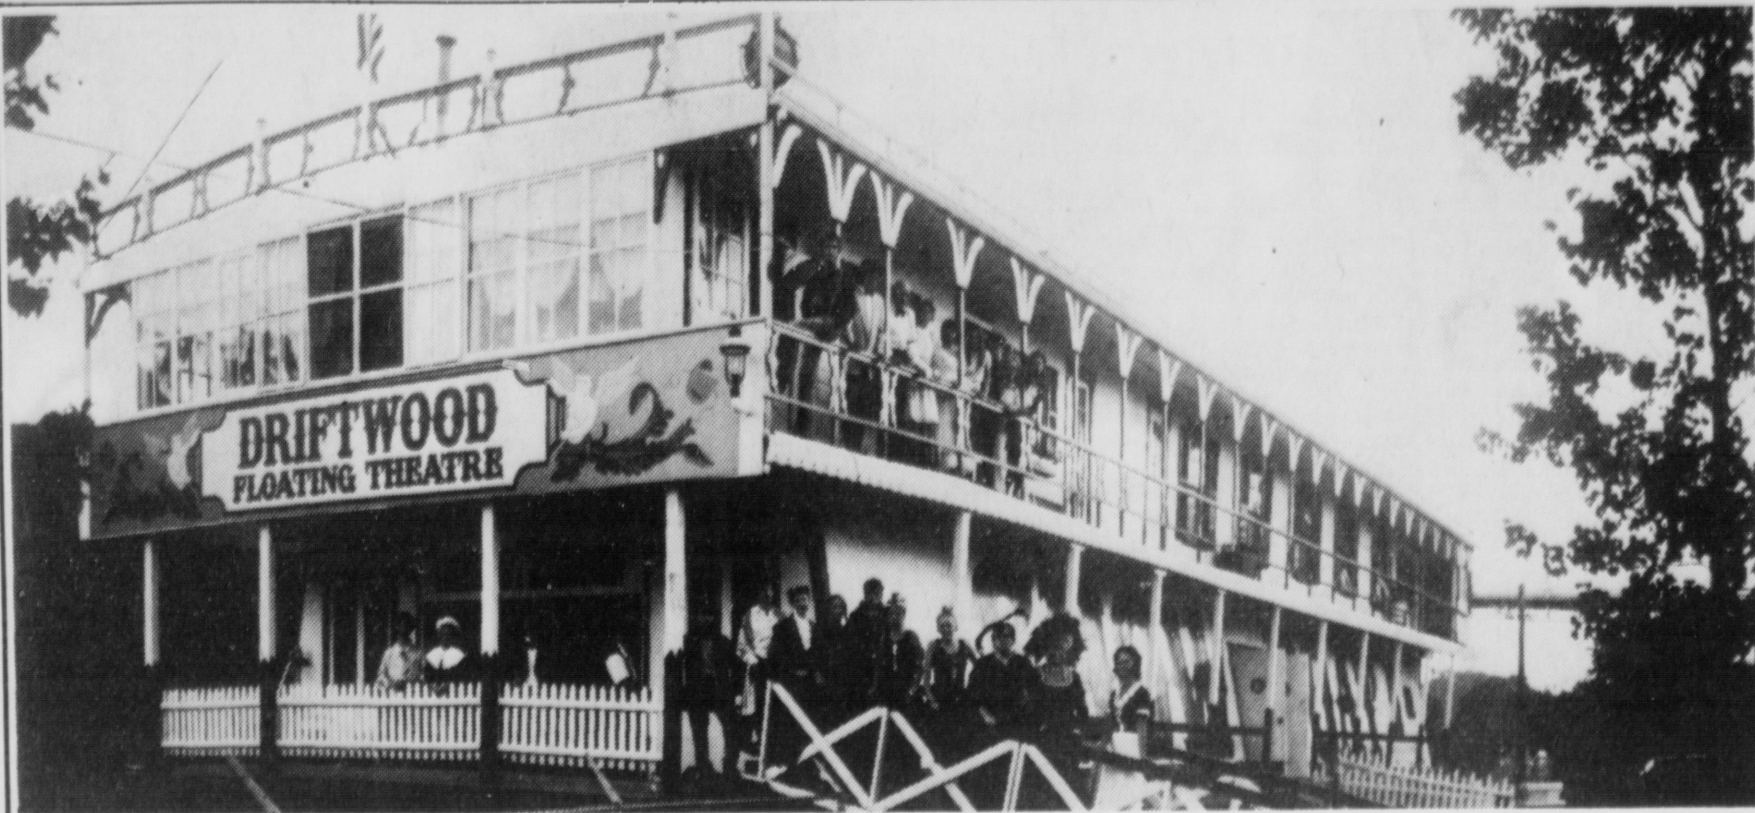

"There are a tremendous amount of repeaters however," he cautions saying that a number of 22-year olds are now coming back for a second divorce.

Like some other jurists and lawyers, he feels that perhaps divorces should be handled in some other way. "I don't think they should take up the time of the court," he declared.

"You listen to 30 divorce cases a day and all you have to do is change the names. The testimony is almost exactly the same."

Woodstock lawyer Joshua Koplovitz believes that people who have lived apart for a year or more and wish to dissolve their marriage should be able to do so. He suggests that they both be allowed to sign a legal paper to that effect and not have to go through the entire divorce proceeding as we know it today.

Today's divorce usually costs between $500 and $1,500 which Koplovitz feels is too high, claiming that many attorneys charge what they feel the traffic will bear. He also believes that Ulster County should provide free legal service to the poor. Divorce is not a luxury, he contends. People should be able to get out of a marriage if they want to, regardless of their financial status.

It's the season again for the Driftwood Floating Theatre at the foot of Kingston's Broadway. The comedy "Just Married," opened the 1975 summer season last Friday night.

Driftwood Opening . . . Talented Cast, Hip Crowd

By Tobie Geertsema

A February issue of an 1845 newspaper put it this way: The showboat would "be ready in the early summer to sail up the Hudson River and amuse the people of the interior whose residences lie along the banks of the Hudson." And so it was that the first cry of "Showboat!" had sounded over Hudson water as boys, racing to the landings from the high banks of the river, had hailed with delight the gay caravel of a theatrical steamer and its colorful tow.

Now, 130 years later, we "people of the interior" whose residences lie within walking or driving distance of the Rondout landing at the foot of Kingston's Broadway are being amused again by the antics aboard the Driftwood Floating Theater.

The old-fashioned farce comedy (the original 1917 version of "JUST MARRIED") was ably presented last Friday night by a talented cast to a hip audience. It prompted lusty guffaws from the "straights" in the house — people over 40 — and from the grasshopper set — 30 and under. And the middle group, 30 to 40 was more than content to follow the wisdom of both their elders and the younger set by responding with the same irrelevant laughter.

The comedy in "Just Married" succeeded simply because its often dated jokes were totally traditional. Wife to husband, "If I'd listened to everyone 20 years ago, I would never have married you." Husband to wife, "That's right, my dear, but then you never did take anyone's advice, did you?" . . . Wife to husband's friend, "Are you going to keep my husband out all night?" Husband's friend to wife, "How much would you give me?" . . . Wife to husband about an attractive younger woman, "A woman like that should be made to wear the scarlet letter!" Husband to wife, "I always did like red!" . . . Wife to crowd at large, "I'm so weak, you could knock me down with a feather." Husband to same assemblage, "Uh, anybody got a feather?"

Responsible for most of the laughs were Bill La Voie, a familiar face to area audiences, as that man of affairs, Mr. U. Makepeace Witter; and a talented, rubber-legged, rubber-faced newcomer to local stages, Paul Hastings, who made his maiden voyage half drunk, half hung-over in traditional morning coat and striped trousers.

Smashingly attractive in their roles (both from the point of physical attributes and stage presence) were Debbi Curl as a brand new bride, Sheryl Nieren as a stowaway from Paris, and Ruth Anne Farrell as a fiancée who finds a new fiancé on the trip. Cameron Schuyler was charming and refreshing as the new bridegroom, and Sara Picasso properly snobbish as a wife who henpecks her long-suffering husband. Jim Staskiel, as a philandering fiancé, showed promise for future performances, but suffered from stilted delivery and missed cues on opening night.

Part of the overall fun is lodged in the vaudeville offerings between acts. And, during this particular play, the showboat sways again to the strains of "Moonlight Bay," performed by Sheryl Nieren and Ralph LittleSaint (attired in a card board canoe); a vocal solo by Joe Doyle, accompanying himself to the awful bleatings of a kazoo; and Pneumatics Engineer David Lown playing The Mighty Wurlitzer Nickelodeon.

As laugh-provoking as was the talented cast and the vaudevillians, they were all totally upstaged by Tom McGuire, whose name does not even appear on the program for his particular contribution to the night. When Tom takes over the stage to hawk boxes of candy to the audience ("gin-you-wine, imported jawbreakers"), he has the audience eating out of his hand. Some of the boxes contain surprise gift coupons, notes Tom, but, "If you get a box without a coupon, consider it an heirloom." He's easily the best actor aboard. All in all, it's great fun to sit on a boat and see a play that takes place on a boat. We found it a rare treat, indeed, and found it altogether fitting, as well, that Kingston Mayor

Francis R. Koenig showed up Friday to designate the day as SHOWBOAT DAY IN KINGSTON; present Captain Ed Furbush with a framed proclamation so stating on behalf of the residents of Kingston. Huzzah!

KHS Choir . . . A Varied Program

The Kingston High School Choir presented its annual spring concert Thursday, May 22, in the high school auditorium.

Brian Steeves, director of music for the Kingston City Schools, conducted an interesting and varied program for a large and appreciative audience.

The program ran the musical gamut from Bach's All Breathing Life to Broadway's Oklahoma, each sung in the style demanded by the music's character. Schubert's Omnipotence called for a broad spectrum of dynamics, and the solo which provides artistic relief from thundering fortissimos was handled competently as a "group solo" by Kathleen Ferrigan, Ann Markes and Susan Martino.

Diana Baker and Florence Larios, who had a far from easy assignment, demonstrated their abilities as accompanists in the Brahms suite, Four Love Songs, sung as the composer intended, with a two-piano accompaniment which demands pianists who have learned to work as a team.

Piquancy was added to Houston Bright's The Walrus and the Carpenter by the effective work of percussionists Jolie Dunham and Thomas Habernig.

The subtlety of "Frostiana," Randall Thompson's settings of Robert Frost's New England poems, were effectively interpreted, and it added to one's enjoyment to be able to read Frost's complete texts which were printed in the program. Since the poems can, and do, stand alone on their literary merits, it was pleasant to be able to read the words, for good poetry demands a listener who has had time to work out the meaning a poet can give his work by the judicious use of punctuation.

The last group, All The Things You Are, You'll Never Wall Alone, The Unicorn and Oklahoma was pure fun, and the enthusiastic audience responded with a standing ovation.

The entire concert was musically and intelligently sung and reflects credit on the Choir members and their director. The occasion confirmed a Freeman announcement several weeks ago that "... music is alive and well at Kingston High School."

2nd Fair St. Musical

The Music Committee of the Fair Street Church announces the second in its series of Sunday evening musicals will feature their organist Gloria Jean Sparks. These evenings are in support of the solicitation of gifts and memorial donations for the Golden Anniversary Organ Fund.

Following the proposition that "musical events don't have to be stuffy," June 1 at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary Gloria Jean Sparks will offer a most unusual evening of sacred and secular organ music—she may even find the "Lost Chord." Beside the traditional composers such as Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms, the contemporary composers such as Bacharach, Bernstein, Gershwin and even Neil Diamond will be duly represented.

Gloria Jean has accompanied both vocal and instrumental soloists and choral groups and has played for many recitals as a soloist. She has become well-known for her artistic interpretation of religious works. Her competence and mastery of the console should complement this program.

The Music Committee extends an invitation to all to shed the formalities of dress, come in your "comfortables" and share in an easy spring Sunday evening of organ music.

The programs in this series are presented free of charge and no offering will be taken. Information concerning the Golden Anniversary Organ Fund and the means by which bequests and memorials may be established will be available.

Y-Wives Dinner

The annual dinner-meeting of Y-Wives Club of the YWCA will be held June 5 at 7:30 p.m. at Huguenot Manor in New Paltz. Officers and executive committee members will be announced at that time. Mrs. Robert P. Slover is in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

Members were recently entertained by Mrs. E. Ronald Rifenburg in a program of Mid-Eastern dancing. Mrs. Rifenburg preceded her performance with a discussion of the history of this dance form. She also explained the traditional musical instruments and costume employed. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. John F. Ollive and Mrs. Herbert H. Reuner.

Music At Olive Library

A program of Music, featuring music students from Onondaga, will be presented at the Olive Library on Thursday, June 5, at 7:30 p.m.

These young people will perform in small groups such as quartets and trios, both vocal and instrumentally, mainly strings and woodwinds. These Junior and Senior High students, are specially selected students of band, orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Earl Proper, Douglas Calderwood and Lawrence Stowe.

This program at the library has been arranged for the enjoyment of the parents and friends of the young musicians. However, some seating will be available for interested members of the community. Refreshments will be served.

Sweet Adelines Seek More Members

She reports that a cordial invitation is extended to all women who might like to sing barbershop harmony with this organization.

Meetings are held each Tuesday night at St. James Methodist Church, Fair and Pearl Streets, starting at 8 o'clock.

The newly-installed Sweet Adelines president was instrumental in extending the Sweet Adelines to England. In England during an International Business Machines stay, she helped charter three new chapters. In 1977, the international competition has been invited to London.

Point Concert Sunday

The U.S. Military Academy Band will present the 1975 June Week Concert Sunday, June 1, at 3 p.m. in the Trophy Point Amphitheater, West Point.

The concert, which will feature the U.S. Corps of Cadets Pipe and Drum Corps, is being presented as part of the activities leading to graduation day at the Academy.

Selections to be performed will include "William Tell Overture" by G. Rossini and "Bolivar" by Eric Cook featuring trombone soloist Master Sergeant Thomas Ciurczak.

The concert is open to the public with no admission charge.

Consumer Food Tips

required to give you a raincheck.

4) Neighborhood corner stores are convenient, but their prices are usually higher than the prices in large supermarkets. Try comparing prices to see whether you should change your place of shopping.

5) Don't cheat yourself by buying most non-food items in the supermarket. Pots and pans, paper goods, toothpaste, lotion, and other things that are non-food items are usually cheaper at drug stores or discount department stores.

6) Try to prepare smaller serving sizes of meat. According to most dietary studies, we eat more meat than we need. Three to four ounces of cooked lean meat is usually enough meat to supply your body's needs — that means you can get at least four servings from each pound of hamburger.

Try some of these hints and see if your food bill doesn't go down.

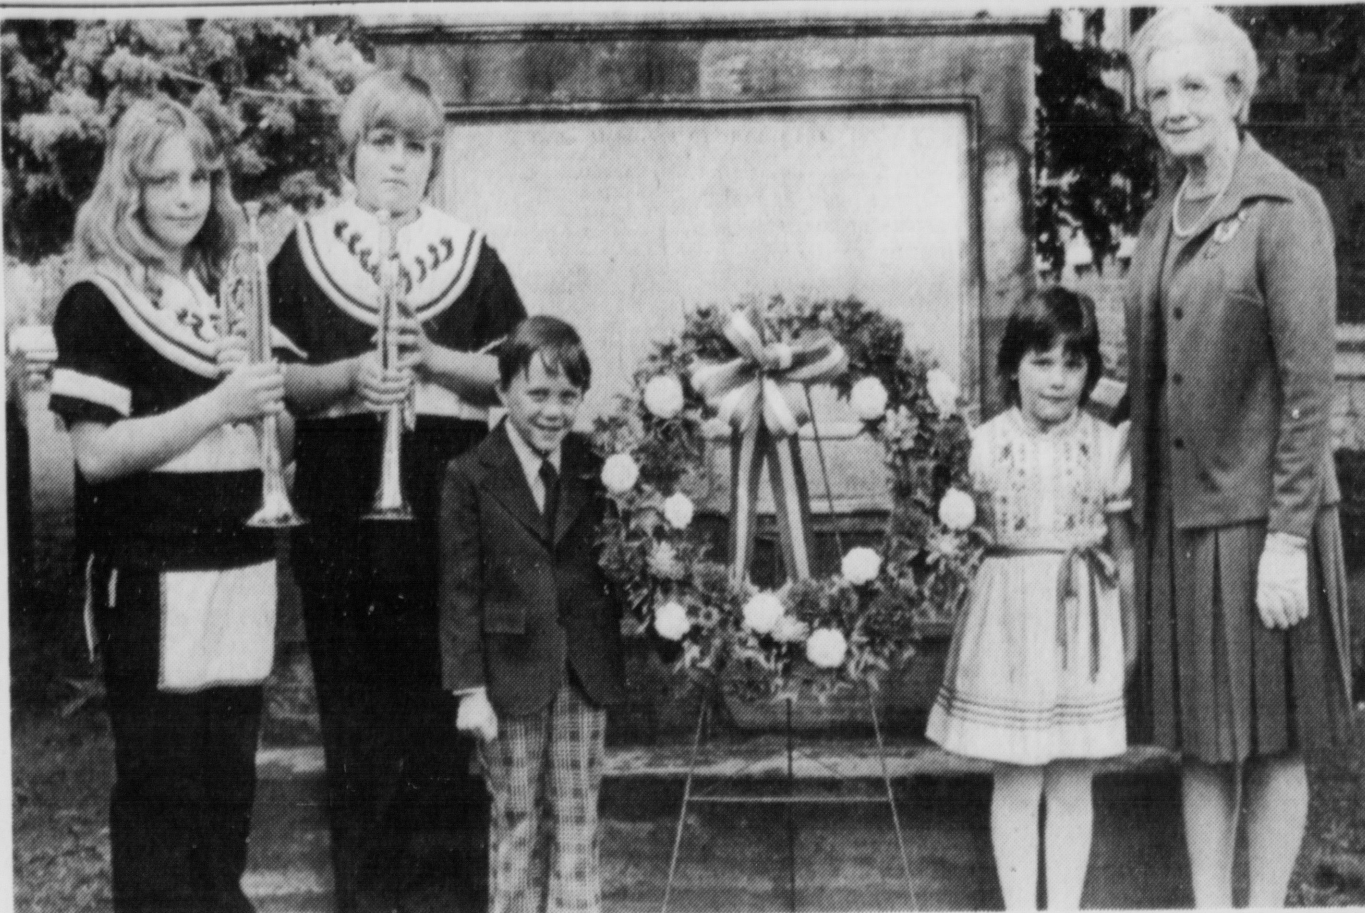

With the high cost of "everything" lately, people are becoming more concerned about their food bills and their ways of shopping, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Here are a few hints that might help you save on your good bills:

1) Check your local paper for specials. Most papers list the sale items for supermarkets on certain days of the week. Try to plan your meals around these special sale items, and include them on your grocery list.

2) Try to plan your grocery list before you go shopping — list items you will need to prepare your family's meals for a set period of time. Once you're in the supermarket, try not to buy items that are not on your list.

3) If the store has run out of the special sale item(s), ask for a raincheck — a guarantee to sell the item at the same "lower" price at a later date. The supermarket manager is

Judges Are Announced For Ulster Library Event

Judges for this year's Town of Ulster Library Art and Craft Show have been announced.

Mrs. Suzanne Eichhorn and Mrs. Dorothy McFadyen co-chairpersons of this year's show to be held Saturday, June 7, at the Town of Ulster Library on Morton Boulevard, said that Christie Medved, Jim Cummings, Susanne Seaver, Debra Lavaggi and Kurt Matzdorf will judge this year's entries.

Christie Medved is a self-taught artist. She has lived in Woodstock for the past seven years which is where her interest in art began. She is a member of the Silvermine Guild in New Canaan, Conn. She also is a member of the Woodstock Art Association. She has won many awards, most recently in the 25th Anniversary show in Springfield, Mass., and has exhibited widely all over the eastern seaboard. Her work is in many private collections across the country.

Jim Cummings is a member of the Woodstock Artists Association, and is on the board of directors. He works in oils, watercolor and pastels; currently he has a show at Desmond-Weiss Gallery in Woodstock. Cummings teaches picture framing at Ulster County Community College and Columbia-Greene Community College. He is a professional framer and operates a shop in Woodstock.

Debra Lavaggi studied at Cooper Union College in New York City and is currently studying for her masters at New Paltz. She is a member of the Woodstock Artists Association. She has exhibited at the W.A.A. this past April and had a one-man show at the Gallery of July and August last November in Woodstock. Debra taught junior high school art in New York City and currently teaches art at the Bennett School in Ontario.

Suzanne Seaver is a widely acclaimed master of Batik, as may be seen in her own paintings now on exhibit at the library, in which she has used the method as a fine arts medium. She welcomes both children and adults to her classes.

The artist studied with Robert Angeloch at the Art Students League and at his Spear Road Studio, and has shown in various galleries in the Mid-Hudson area, New Jersey and Connecticut. Her first one-man show at the Lewis Gallery in 1972 drew much attention. She was featured at the Woodstock Artists Association and involved in the "Artists in the Schools" program, and recently began textile designing for a New York firm.

Kurt J. Matzdorf began his artistic career as a sculptor. He studied with Benno Elkan in Oxford and after receiving the London University diploma in sculpture from the Slade School of Fine Arts he came to the United States. As a graduate student at the University of Iowa he came in contact with gold and silver smithing. The range of his activities extends from precious jewelry in gold, rubies, diamonds, emeralds through silver. His work created for religious purposes can be seen in churches and synagogues in many parts of the United States.

Matzdorf has had seven one-man exhibitions and has been invited to exhibit in international, national and regional exhibitions where he has won a number of awards and prizes.

He is a charter member and director of the recently formed Society of North American Goldsmiths, and is professor of gold- and silversmithing in the art department of the State University College, New Paltz.

The Untenable Triangle . . . Him, Also Her, and Also Mom

DEAR ABBY: I am unmarried with two small children. I don't love their father, although we live together because it's convenient. We get along so-so. We share the bills, and I get the use of his car.

I knew Sam only three weeks when we started living together. I got pregnant, and then I was stuck.

He told me he was divorced, but he won't show me the proof. (I think he's lying.) He gambles a lot, and I can't trust him very far. He works nights and I work days. We have no friends or social life. But Sam is good to the kids, and they love him.

My mother lives in my building, and she is driving me nuts. She interferes and causes arguments between Sam and me. She goes against everything I say to my kids — calls me stupid in front of them and tells them not to listen to me. When I discipline the kids, they cry for Grandma, and this hurts. She also tells everybody my business.

What can I do about her? And what can I do about my messed-up life? I'm 32 and feel like 82.

MISFIT IN CHICAGO

DEAR MISFIT: I see two major problems: Sam and your mother. You need to get away from your mother. She is poison to your self-esteem, and a troublemaker to boot.

Call Family Service, and make an appointment with one of their professional counselors. You need to talk at length with someone who can help you put your life in order. Living with a man you don't love because it's a convenience is a bad trip. Counseling will lighten your burden and show you the way. Good luck. Write again to tell me how you're doing. I care.

DEAR ABBY: Well, here goes my first "Dear Abby" letter: A dear friend of mine, who happened to be an elderly lady, gave me a beautiful Oriental urn. She was in good health and by no means senile when she gave it to me.

Since her death last week, a daughter-in-law called, asking that I return the urn because "it had been promised to someone in the family." She also suggested that her mother-in-law was not in her right mind when she gave it to me.

I was very hurt to be asked for something that I know was given to me out of love and generosity. I like the urn and want to keep it. I have asked several other people what they would do in this case, and they say, "Keep it."

I need your opinion before making a decision. Thank you.

OHIOAN

DEAR OHIOAN: I vote to keep it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

SPORTS TODAY

'Most Pleasant' Game for Bobby Bonds

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Bobby Bonds snapped more than the Kansas City Royals' winning streak Wednesday night. He may have snapped himself out of a prolonged batting slump.

The New York Yankees rightfielder cracked a pair of two-run homers, lifting the Yankees to a 6-2 victory over Kansas City and ending the Royals' winning streak at six games.

Bonds, who was traded to the Yankees by San Francisco in the off-season, now has nine home runs and 29 runs batted in, but still is hitting only .210. "This is the most pleasant game I've had this season," Bonds said. "Maybe this will snap me out of it. I'm satisfied with the home runs and RBIs but nothing else."

Both of Bonds' homers came off another ex-National Leaguer, Nellie Briles. Fred Stanley, who doubled in the third inning and singled in the fifth, scored in front of Bonds both times.

The Yankees added two more runs in the fifth when Thurman Munson walked and Chris Chambliss and Graig Nettles cracked run-scoring doubles.

Left-hander Rudy May, 4-2, picked up the victory and went the distance, allowing six hits.

The Royals, who have won 12 of their last 17 games, open a 10-game road trip Friday in Milwaukee while the Yankees begin a four-game series in Texas tonight.

*** The last time anyone heard from a pitcher named Jim Hughes, he was a hard-luck right-hander for the old Brooklyn Dodgers with an affinity for throwing high hard ones in the late innings to people like Joe Adcock and Stan Musial.

Well, the Minnesota Twins have come up with the baseball's "latest" Jim Hughes and like his sometimes-maligned predecessor of the 1950s, he throws right-handed. There, however, the similarity ends—at least off the Minnesota rookie's pitching performance thus far this season.

Hughes, who wouldn't even be in the Twins' starting rotation now had it not been for assorted injuries to other frontliners Dave Goltz, Joe Decker and Vic Albury, won his sixth game in seven decisions Wednesday night, hurling Minnesota to a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers. In addition to striking out seven, the 23-year old palm ball specialist stranded Bill Freehan and Ron LeFlore in the fourth and fifth innings after each had smacked one-out triples.

*** "He was brought through the minor leagues the right way—a step at a time," said Twins Manager Frank Quilici. "He picked up a palm ball and Cal Ermer (manager of the Tacoma farm club) told us to keep him throwing it. The thing that's made him so effective is his ability to change speeds."

A's 5, Orioles 0 Oakland's Vida Blue became the major leagues' first nine-game winner of 1975, limiting slumping Baltimore to four hits. Blue, who struck out three, got support from three homers—a solo shot by

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets appear to be solving one of their biggest problems—developing a relief pitcher to replace the departed Tug McGraw.

McGraw, who sounded the battle cry, "you gotta believe," in the Mets' dash to the National League pennant in 1973, was traded to the Philadelphia Phillies last winter for outfielder Del Unser and catcher John Stearns.

Manager Yogi Berra flinched when he went to his bullpen for about the first month of the season but seems to have found a capable close-out reliever in Bob Apodaca.

Apodaca, who had to spend some extra time in Florida early in the season as a sore arm mended, earned his sixth save Wednesday night when the Mets beat Los Angeles 4-3, shaving the Dodgers' first-place lead in the National League West to 1½ games over the Cincinnati Reds.

"I'm getting to feel pretty good coming out of the bullpen," said Apodaca, who took over for winner Jon Matlack with one on and none out in the ninth. "I'm getting confidence. I don't know how to explain it. Early in the season, I couldn't make the good pitches. Now I am and everything is falling into place."

Apodaca came on after Matlack walked Lee Lacy to open the ninth and retired pinch-hitters Manny Mota, Willie Crawford and Bill Buckner for his fourth save in the last week.

Matlack pitched eight innings in gaining credit for his sixth victory against three losses. Doug Rau suffered the loss with Andy Messersmith, one of the Dodgers' ace starters, making his first relief appearance ever for Los Angeles in the eighth inning.

Ed Kranepool's sacrifice fly drove in the winning run in the eighth after Felix Millan singled, was sacrificed to second by Jesus Alou and went to third on a single by Joe Torre. The Dodgers had tied the score in the sixth on a walk to Jimmy Wynn, a single by Steve Garvey and a two-run single by Ron Cey.

The Dodgers opened the scoring in the first on two walks and Garvey's single that gave him 36 RBIs—tops in the majors. The Mets got three runs in their half of the first on Rusty Staub's two-run double and Dave Kingman's single.

*** Gary Nolan has "a new lease on life" and the Cincinnati Reds have fresh hopes that they can beat the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League's Western Division race.

Although only 27 years old, Nolan is trying to pitch his way back to stardom after more than two years of frustration. He developed a sore arm just before the 1972 All-Star game and in the last two seasons pitched a total of 16 innings for Cincinnati and Indianapolis.

Yogi Believes in Apodaca

Nolan says the turning point was when he underwent surgery last fall which relieved the constant pain caused by a calcium spur in his right shoulder.

"I'm still young and I have to look to the future," he said at the start of this season. "I'm not going out on a limb but I'll say I'll be in there pitching this year."

The 6-foot-3, 210-pound right-hander pitched his best game since 1972 Wednesday night when he turned in a two-hitter to give the Reds a 6-0 victory over the Montreal Expos. Nolan struck out five and walked two to raise his record to 4-3 and enable the Reds to move to within 1½ games of first-place Los Angeles.

Ken Griffey drove in two runs and Johnny Bench had a key double to lead Cincinnati's eight-hit attack, which dealt 20-year old Dennis Blair his sixth loss against two wins.

Pittsburgh beat Houston 3-0, Philadelphia topped San Francisco 8-6, St. Louis won 6-5 in 10 innings over San Diego and the Chicago Cubs shaded Atlanta 5-4 in other NL games.

Pirates 3, Astros 0

Ken Brett pitched a nine-hitter and Dave Parker hit a two-run homer for Pittsburgh, which dealt Houston's Dave Roberts his fifth loss against three victories. The win was Brett's fourth compared to two defeats.

Phillies 8, Giants 6

Rookie Jerry Martin's two-run homer and Mike Schmidt's two-run double were the big blows for Philadelphia, which broke open the game against San Francisco with a four-run outburst in the seventh. Steve Carlton received credit for his third victory with ninth-inning relief help from Tug McGraw. Mike Anderson also homered for the Phillies.

Cardinals 6, Padres 5

Luis Melendez' single with the bases filled and two out in the 10th inning lifted St. Louis over San Diego, which tied the score in the eighth with the help of two errors. Reliever Mike Garman received credit for the victory while Bill Greif was the loser.

Cubs 5, Braves 4

Don Kessinger, Pete LaCock and pitcher Bill Bonham had two hits each for Chicago, with Oscar Zamora picking up the victory in relief. Atlanta's Carl Morton suffered his fifth loss against five wins.

You can also fail it with your eyes closed.
We call it the Utica Club Bar Exam.
You'll call it a nice test. Because if you fail it, you'll just have to take it over again. Until you get it right.
Here's how it works. Take any two beers of your choice. And one of ours. Utica Club. Pour them all into mugs. Have someone blindfold you (or at least mix the mugs up) just to make sure you taste the beers, not the labels.
Now, taste. Which one would you move to the head of the class?
In tests like this conducted in colleges in upstate New York, Utica Club was preferred more often than not.

New Paltz and Rondout Gain UCAL Finals

KINGSTON Roger Plantier and Jay Schaeffer pitched their teams into the finals of the Ulster County Athletic League baseball championships Wednesday with a pair of shutouts. Plantier worked on a perfect game for awhile and finally settled for a one-hitter as New Paltz High downed Pine Bush at the Marlboro diamond, 5-0. Schaeffer scattered four hits in Fallsburgh to lead defending champion Rondout to a 2-0 win over Liberty.

Losing pitcher Bob Bolebruch threw a third strike past Mike Beck in the second inning. He also threw it past catcher Ed Caputo to allow Beck to become the first New Paltz baserunner. Beck went to second on a wild pitch, to third on a fielders choice, and scored on a single by Rich Snider. Plantier didn't need any more support than that as he retired the first 13 Bushmen to come to the plate. With one out in the fifth, he gave up a walk, and one out later Steve Majetich broke up the no-hitter with a single just inside the right field line.

Plantier set down seven in a row after that to wrap up the game and raise his record to 5-1. He finished with nine strikeouts. Pete Ferrante doubled home Snider in the fourth to add another huge score, and the winners chased Bolebruch in the fifth as hits by Pete Sciascia and Plantier sparked a three-run uprising.

Dave Schmeltz, Tom Barry and Jeff Purcell belted consecutive singles off Mike Lofaro in Rondout's first inning. Purcell's hit drove Schmeltz home, and Barry went to third on the throw. Jeff Mahoney's infield out scored the second run.

Lofaro settled down after that to blank the Ganders the rest of the way, but Schaeffer never wavered. He walked one and struck out seven over the distance.

A good defensive play by Purcell in center spoiled Liberty's biggest try at a run. That came in the fourth after a walk and a single by Dave Sostak. Purcell fielded a ball, and fired home to cut down Dave Wicks at the plate.

New Paltz and Rondout will meet for the title at a neutral field on Tuesday.

OCS Clinches Tennis Title

LIBERTY Liberty High knocked Coleman out of the Ulster County Athletic League tennis race Wednesday with a 4-1 win, its second triumph over the Statesmen in 24 hours.

The double defeats by Coleman enabled Onteora, which is unbeaten in nine matches, to clinch its first net crown. Red Hook had won the only other UCAL tennis titles the last three years.

Liberty beat Coleman Tuesday, 3-2, when the Statesmen were forced to forfeit the deciding second doubles match due to a lack of players. Wednesday, the Statesmen were without No. 1 man John Farrell.

Farrell beat Bill Hulse, 8-3, in Tuesday's opener. Then it was Larry Epstein of Liberty topping Paul Lyle, 13-11, and Jeff Bunnack of Coleman downing Mike McCarty, 8-6.

In doubles, Jeff Hersh and Steve Sprague of Liberty trimmed Mark McDonough and Mike Haggerty, 9-7.

Wednesday, Epstein tripped Lyle, 8-6; Hulse stopped Bunnack, 8-2; and Kevin Kenyon of Coleman beat Dave Gross, 8-5.

In doubles, Hersh and Ken Benkendorf of Liberty beat McDonough and Chris Norton, 8-1; and the Indians' duo of Sprague and Mark Wack knocked off Bill Knott and Jeff Garvson, 8-4.

Carlson Leads Onteora

RED HOOK John Carlson holed out his second shot on the Red Hook Country Club's par four ninth hole Wednesday, and that eagle enabled Carlson to finish with a medalist 39 as the Onteora High School golf team defeated host Red Hook, 172-200.

Bill Kennedy at 42, John Powers at 44 and Jeff Buton at 47 rounded out the Indians' total which was good enough to hand the Raiders their 16th straight loss. For Red Hook, Bob Skelly fired 47, Jerry Kane had 49, Ken Fowler had 51 and William Abela had 53.

Park Wins Akron Classic

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Virginia Park of Whittier, Calif., rolled a final six-game total of 1,208 Wednesday night to win the Greater Akron Bowling Classic.

Miss Park, 23, held the lead briefly in the afternoon session Wednesday and came back to take command for good in the final four games in the night session as she won her first Professional Women Bowlers Association tournament. She earned $2,500 for the victory.

The slim, dark-haired department store employee crowned the night with a 202-192 win over Judy Soutar of Grandview, Mo., the pacesetter after 12 games in the finals. Edie Jo Neal, Miami, finished with a 1,373 total in the final six games good enough for second place and $1,750.

Mrs. Soutar, wife of pro bowler Dave, was third, followed by Betty Morris, Stockton, Cal., and Edith Burroughs, Akron, Ohio.

Kingston Beats Roosevelt of Yonkers, 6-0, In Section One Play

KINGSTON Kingston High School, DCSL baseball champion this year, advanced in Section One tournament play Wednesday as Gary Amato spun a six-hit shutout to lift the Maroons to a 6-0 victory over Roosevelt of Yonkers at Dietz Stadium.

Duane Carey's first inning triple led to an early KHS run, then the Maroons put the game on ice with three runs in the sixth and two more in the seventh. Lou Eccleston and home run hitter Dave Loeffler powered Kingston's late surge.

Amato wasn't overpowering. "He really didn't have that good a game today," said his coach, Ron Cole. But Steve Hughes, Paul Runge and Mark Chapman turned in some sparkling plays in the field, and Amato managed to throw his good pitches when he had to.

Carey, who hit the ball hard all day, clobbered a two-out triple to deep center in the first off loser Bob Nastasi. He came home when Nastasi, scrambling for a passed ball, made a wild throw back to his catcher.

Despite that promising start, the Kingston offense wilted for the next four innings. The Maroons hit some shots off Nastasi, a curve-throwing lefty, but they were harmless, and it was still a 1-0 game going into the sixth.

Hughes reached on an error and took second on a wild pitch to start the big rally. He moved to third as Carey drilled a liner to center.

With Phil Timbrouck in to run for Carey, Eccleston connected for an RBI single that put men at first and third. Kingston scored again as Roosevelt catcher Anthony DeVito threw the ball into right field on a double steal attempt, then Rich Bell capped the upsurge with a sacrifice fly.

Runge was aboard in the seventh when pinch hitter

Loeffler pounded one over the left fielder's head. It was only Loeffler's second appearance at the plate this year. His first time up, also as a pinch hitter, he doubled.

Roosevelt did the threatening in the middle innings, but Amato got out of all the jams. The losers had two men on with one out in the fourth when Chapman caught the second out in rightfield and prevented any advance with a perfect throw to third base.

In the fifth, Amato fanned shortstop Jim Capowski, the number three hitter, and got cleanup man DeVito on a pop-up to strand a runner at third.

Hughes victimized Steve Pinto with the play of the game in the second. The Kingston third baseman made a backhand stop in the dirt and gunned the throw across in time. It followed a similar play by shortstop Runge who took a hit away from Capowski.

All the good defense was especially helpful since KHS'

second baseman Val Galm went to the hospital with a separated shoulder in the first inning. Galm charged a slow roller off the bat of Dave Antonelli but was run down in the basepath by Roosevelt's Glen Spina.

Centerfielder Cliff Lyons, who took over for Galm at second, helped fill the gap by starting a game-ending double play.

Huguenot Manor Plans Friday Golf Lessons

NEW PALTZ

Huguenot Manor Golf and Country Club has announced that Dr. William T. (Bill) Odeneal will conduct golf lessons on three successive Fridays, June 13, 20 and 27. He will teach intermediate golf for men from 5 to 6 p.m. and for advanced Juniors from 4 to 5 p.m.

The teaching sessions are open to the public and reservations may be made by calling the club.

The quartet of Doug Sheppard, Joe Farrell, Ed McSweeney and Eric Winkky carded a four-under-par 68 to win first place in the men's Captain and Crew Tournament. Tied with 69s were the foursome of Arch Fabiano-Ron Hicinbothem-Mac Egdon-Dale Carlson and Ron Mackey-Dave Keeffe-Bill Cuthbert and Bill Irwin.

The official opening of the swimming pool at the Manor is scheduled Saturday, June 14. Two of New Paltz State University's alltime swimming greats—Dave Loeffler and Pat Halpin—will serve as pool directors.

Sets Capture 14th in a Row

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI)

—The New York Sets rolled to their 14th straight victory Wednesday night, beating the Boston Lobsters, 28-15, in World Team Tennis action.

Billie Jean King teamed with Mona Schallau to beat

Valerie Ziegenfuss and Kerry

Melville Reid, 6-2, in the opening set and the New Yorkers were never challenged. Sandy Mayer won singles over Ion Tiriac and then teamed with Fred Stolle to beat Tiriac and Bob Hewitt in doubles, 6-3.

Kenon Dealt To San Antonio

UNIONDALE, N.Y.

—The New York Nets of the American Basketball Association reportedly have traded forward Larry Kenon and guard Mike Gale to the San Antonio Spurs for center Sven Nater.

A news conference scheduled by the Nets for today, presumably to announce the trade, was called off a few hours after it was announced with no reason given. But it was learned reliably that a deal had been made.

Kenon was sixth in the league in rebounding and averaged 15.9 points per game last year. Nater, who beat out Kenon for Rookie-of-the-Year in 1974, is known for his aggressive and physical play. Gale is considered to be one of the top defensive players in the league.

Cole Fans 19 Saugerties Loses, 1-0, In 14

PORTCHESTER

Saugerties High's Tim Cole and Portchester's Bob Foreman struck out 39 batters between them Wednesday but neither was around at the finish as Port blanked the Sawyers, 1-0, in 14 innings in a Section One Class A baseball game.

Vic Giuliani's two out single off reliever Tom Crane from second with the only run of a magnificently played pitchers' duel. Foust had led off the 14th with a double.

Cole, the Saugerties ace, fanned 19 batters in 11 innings, giving up only five hits and two walks. Foreman had an almost identical line, striking out 20 in 11 and a third,

also yielding five hits, but walking three.

Crane, who worked the last three innings took the defeat (adding three more strikeouts to his team's total) and Foust, the Portchester relief man, was the winner (also accumulating three strikeouts). In all, 45 batters went down swinging.

"It was an excellent game and a real heart-breaker to lose," Saugerties coach Tony Vizzie acknowledged.

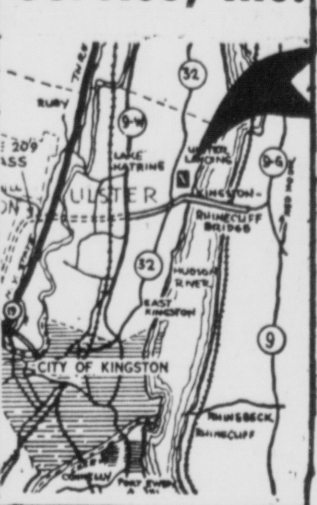

The Sawyers did have their chances to score what with 10 men reaching base, six with hits and four others via walks. Both sides played errorless ball.

The game was played in Portchester, however Saugerties was listed as the home team.

Mike Albright Has Big Night

KINGSTON
Mike Albright had quite a night for himself in the Met Knot Hole baseball league Wednesday.

In addition to checking the Seneca 22-3 on three hits, Albright was "6 for 6" at the plate, including five singles and a homer. And for good measure, he struck out 14 Senecas.

Ricky Henry gave him plenty of help with a homer, double and two singles. Bob McDonough and Bob Brinkman contributed four singles each.

Trailing 4-3, Pretty Pet Parlor scored three runs in the top of the seventh to upset unbeaten Port Ewen Athletic Association 6-4 in the Town of Esopus Girls Softball League. The win tied Pretty Pet for first place with the AA with 3-1 records. In another game, Wood N Wheel routed Double J. Provisions, 3-0.

Sandy Schermerhorn slammed four singles and a grand slam homer, as the Giants stopped the Dodgers 12-9 in the Town of Ulster girls softball league.

Smith Cracks PV Mark

NEW YORK (UPI) — By the time he went to the pit for his first leap, Steve Smith could feel a strange loneliness.

All three of his rivals already had eliminated themselves from the pole vault during an International Track Association meet Wednesday night and Smith was trying to figure out what had gone wrong.

"I was wondering if there was something wrong with the box, the runway or what," he said. "It's hard to jump when you're the only guy."

Not so hard for Steve Smith. After electing to pass up the lower heights, he cleared his first vault at 17 feet, his first attempt at 17-8 and his second attempt at 18-1 for a Madison Square Garden record. The bar then was lifted to 18-5, an inch higher than Smith's own world indoor best.

"On his first vault at that height, Smith easily sailed over for the record. He missed three tries at 18-7, a height never cleared indoors or outdoors, and then wondered what all the fuss was about."

"This shouldn't be a surprise," said the curly-haired blond, who was bothered by tendinitis in his right knee and a sore shoulder. "Until I hit 19 feet this is expected of me. Nineteen-four will be something to talk about."

"I don't know what my limit is. I'm sure of 19, pretty sure of 19-4. But if I do that, I'll be thinking of even higher heights."

The 23-year-old from Southern California revealed he has increased his concentration since seeing a hypnotist and also has improved his training pattern.

"I'm developing new techniques and I've had better training habits this year," he said. "I'm more involved with what I'm doing. I'm going out with a purpose and getting to know my body better so I can avoid injury."

The evening's work earned Smith $4,000, the largest single night's purse in pro track history. He got $2,000 for winning the pole vault and another $2,000 for setting a world best. In addition, Smith picked up $500 more for promotional work he did.

The established world outdoor record of 18-5 1/4 is held by Bob Seagren, although Dave Roberts has a pending mark of 18-6 1/2 set earlier this year.

Until Smith stepped into the picture, the major entertainment for the sparse crowd was provided by Kenyan Ben Jipcho, who won both the mile and two mile. Jipcho, who now has won 40 of 43 pro races, beat Dave Wottle in the mile in 4:02.7 and then edged Australian Tony Benson in the two mile in 8:40.6.

The other big money-winner was John Smith, a 23-year-old graduate of UCLA who earned $2,000 for capturing the 440 yards in 47.5 seconds.

Brian Oldfield won the shot put with a disappointing distance of 69 feet, 5 inches, and in other events Rod Milburn won the 60-yard high hurdles in seven seconds flat, Cliff Branch of the Oakland Raiders' football team won the King of the Hill 40 in 4.6, J.J. Jackson won the 60-yard dash in 6.1, John Radetich won the high jump with a leap of 7-2, and Ken Swenson won the 880 in 1:52.2.

The only women's event, the 60-yard dash, was won by Wyomia Tyus in 6.7.

Davis Holds Big Lead

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI) — Even though he rolled his lowest set of the three-day-old competition, Dave Davis, an Atlanta veteran, held a sizeable lead Wednesday night as qualifying ended in the $75,000 national championship of the Professional Bowlers Association.

As the 168-man lineup was slashed for the first time, Davis held a lead of 95 pins over his closest pursuer among the 56 survivors.

Davis, who took two titles during the 16-week winter tour, knocked down 1,676 pins Wednesday night in the third and final elimination session and put his 24-game reading at 5,210, an average of more than 217. Second place Don McCune, Munster, Ind., reached 5,115 after shooting a 1,741 series in the third round. McCune, whose last title came in 1973, started his block with a 267.

Just two pins down the line was Bobby Jacks, New Orleans, and another one stick behind was Jay Robinson, Los Angeles. Mark Roth, Staten Island, N.Y., went from 28th to fifth when he came up with a 1,799, the day's best effort.

Earl Anthony, Tacoma, Wash., trying to win this event for a third time, as is Davis, was 13th, 207 pins behind.

St. John, Msgr. Moore Named to Review Board

KINGSTON Howard C. St. John, senior partner in the law firm of St. John, Ronder and Bell and president of the Ulster Savings Bank, along with the Rev. Msgr. Robert E. Moore of Gardiner, will be Ulster County's representatives on a judicial review board recently appointed by the governor, the legislature and the state's top judges.

St. John and Msgr. Moore, pastor of St. Charles Borromeo Church in Gardiner and chaplain at Wallkill Prison, were two of the 11 persons appointed to screen candidates for vacancies in judicial posts in the Third Department which locally includes Albany, Columbia, Greene, Rensselaer, Schoharie, Sullivan and Ulster Counties.

There is a good deal of interest in the judicial review board in this section of the Third Department due to the vacancy created by the election of Lawrence Cooke of to the Court of Appeals.

Two local (Democratic) attorneys, Aaron E. Klein of Kingston and Milton Levine of Sullivan County have announced their availability to fill Justice Cooke's post on the Supreme Court.

The judicial review board will interview candidates and make its recommendations to the governor.

Carey's announced plans are to make the judicial review boards permanent bodies "to take politics out of the courts." He has legislation pending in the Legislature for changing the elective system of picking judges to appointive.

There were five Republicans and five Democrats along with one Liberal named last week. St. John and Msgr. Moore are both Republicans.

The judiciary had the majority of the appointments with Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals Charles D. Breitel naming four persons including Msgr. Moore and Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court J. Clarence Herlihy having one choice. His choice was St. John.

Gov. Hugh L. Carey had four appointees, naming Francis Bergan, a retired justice of the Court of Appeals; Thomas Neiderkorn of Ithaca an architect, Kendall Birr of Elmsire, a history professor at the State University College at Albany and Charles Fish, a Binghamton lawyer. Fish is a Republican; Birr is a Liberal while Bergan and Neiderkorn are Democrats.

Bergan, 73, will serve as chairman of the review board. Legislative leaders named two lawyers Jacob Herzog of Albany, a Democrat and Jefferson Meagher of Binghamton, a Republican.

In addition to Msgr. Moore, Justice Breitel also named Warner Bouck of Albany, Mrs. Jeanne Moore of Glens Falls and M.P. Catherwood of Ithaca, a former state commerce commissioner. Bouck and Mrs. Moore are Democrats while Catherwood is a Republican.

St. John, 53, is a 1948 graduate of Albany Law School. Just over four years later, at the age of 29, he was elected Ulster County district attorney. He served three terms but chose not to run for reelection in 1958.

St. John was elected Kingston Republican chairman in 1961, bringing off one of the most remarkable political upsets in city history when he brought former Alderman-at-

Large John C. Schwenk out of retirement to defeat incumbent Mayor Edwin F. Radel by some 85 votes in the November runoff. Radel had swept into office by almost 2,700 votes in 1959.

St. John served as an aide to former Congressman J. Ernest Wharton in the early '60s and served as county manager for Alexander Aldrich in 1965 when he ran in a GOP primary against Hamilton Fish Jr.

Except for brief and scattered appearances, St. John has been out of active politics for the past ten years.

Howard C. St. John

AREA NEWS TODAY

Low Kirschner Makes It Official

KINGSTON Making his candidacy official today, County Legislator Lewis C. Kirschner (D-Dist. 6), challenged Republican incumbent County Clerk Albert Spada for his post.

Recognizing that he starts his campaign as "a decided underdog," the Esopus-Rosendale legislator believes that upon presenting Ulster County citizens with the issues as he sees them, he "can and will be elected."

Raising one of the issues immediately, Kirschner, alluding to Spada's chairmanship of the Ulster County GOP Committee, said that since he (Kirschner) is not a political party chairman, his time will be at the disposal of Ulster County citizens, "not political party faithfuls."

"By working full time as your county clerk, I can and will streamline the staff of the county clerk's office, so as to keep the cost to the taxpayers at an absolute minimum," he said. "The cost of government is increasing too rapidly. We can no longer afford to tolerate the county clerk's office as being the source of political patronage."

Saying he has always been a strong advocate of a competitive political party system, Kirschner, a Kingston delicatessen owner, believes that when one party governs exclusively, the result is a government with reduced effectiveness.

"Competition provides quality. Monopoly produces results motivated only by self-interest or special interests," he explained, adding that "a monopoly, whether it be a business enterprise or a political party, has no place in a competitive society such as ours."

He said he believes that if issues are properly presented and discussed throughout the campaign, the voters will base their choice on those issues alone. "It is in furtherance of this belief, that I choose to run," Kirschner concluded, at the same time thanking his constituents in Esopus and Rosendale for demonstrating their faith in him in past elections.

Kirschner, who is president of the Ulster County Legislators and Supervisors Association, is known for his independent and often conservative stands on any number of issues and is also known to cross party lines in support of a cause or candidate.

Just last year he endorsed the candidacy of Republican Thomas Mayone for sheriff. In 1969, he proposed the formation of a bi-partisan committee to meet bi-monthly to discuss the policies of county government.

PUBLIC NOTICE
STATE OF NEW YORK
PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION
ALBANY
Case 26829-1975 Long-Range Electric Plans

May 9, 1975

NOTICE is hereby given that, in accordance with the requirements of Section 149-b of the Public Service Law and the Commission's Rules of Procedure (16 NYCRR, Part 82), public hearings on the 1975 long-range electric system plans filed with the Public Service Commission on April 1, 1975, by the various electric corporations in New York State will be held before the Commission, on Thursday, June 12, 1975, at 10:00 a.m., to be continued Friday, June 13, 1975 at the offices of this Commission, 44 Holland Avenue, Albany, N.Y. The Commission expects to follow the following approximate schedule:

June 12, 1975

10:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m. — The New York Power Pool will address the need for additional power capacity and planning for generation and transmission facilities.

11:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. — Representatives of New York Power Pool — analysis of:

- Load forecasting
- Certification of generation and transmission facilities
- Economics of nuclear generation

12:30 p.m.-1:30 p.m. — Lunch recess

1:30 p.m.-3:30 p.m. — A panel of executives from the Pool and each of its members will answer questions.

3:30 p.m. — Oral comments from the public.

June 13, 1975

10:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m. — The Pool will make a presentation concerning research and development and will answer questions.

11:00 a.m. — Oral comments from the public.

Written comments on the long-range plans may be submitted to Samuel R. Madison, Secretary of the Public Service Commission, at 44 Holland Avenue, Albany, New York 12208, any time prior to July 11, 1975. Persons wishing to make oral comments at the public hearings, including oral comments to supplement or amplify written comments, should notify the Secretary prior to the hearing dates. Within the time available for public comments, priority will be given those who have so notified the Secretary. In order to accommodate all those who wish to be heard, members of the public are requested to limit oral comment to ten minutes.

Questioning of representatives of the various electric corporations at the public hearings will be conducted primarily by members of the Commission and its counsel. If time permits, questions of a clarifying nature may be addressed to the panel of utility executives by members of the public. In the alternative, members of the public may submit proposed questions to Michael Flynn, Legal Assistant, Public Service Commission, 44 Holland Avenue, Albany, New York 12208 (518-474-8731). It is requested that questions be received by June 6, 1975. Persons desiring further information or assistance should also contact Mr. Flynn.

Copies of long-range plans are available for inspection at any of the following Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation offices on weekdays between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.:

284 South Avenue
Poughkeepsie, New York 12602

507 Broadway
Kingston, New York 12401

256 Broadway
Newburgh, New York 12550

353 Main Street
Beacon, New York 12508

391 Main Street
Catskill, New York 12414

A copy of the 1975 long-range plans may be obtained by contacting: Mr. Charles E. Rider, Vice President, Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, 284 South Avenue, Poughkeepsie, New York 12602, Telephone 914-452-2000.

Because of the general informational nature of these proceedings, involving for the most part tentative plans rather than firm proposals, and because individual proceedings of a judicial nature will be conducted for each proposed major generating facility or transmission line which may be proposed eventually for construction, the Commission does not deem it appropriate to pursue, in depth, inquiry into particular sites for generating facilities or specific routes for transmission lines. Rather, the parties should address their comments to the planning features of the subject presentation, including such aspects as the following:

- adequacy of the data;
- demand forecasts;
- adequacy of supply;
- generating mix;
- adequacy of planned transmission grid;
- the reasonableness of the assumptions underlying the various projections;
- the format of the presentation; and
- research directions and priorities.

SAMUEL R. MADISON
Secretary

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market opened lower today in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which has lost 14.86 points the past two sessions, was off 0.55 to 816.49 shortly after the opening. Declines led advances, 202 to 122, among the 497 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover amounted to about 650,000 shares.

Just as the market opened, the Commerce Department reported its new index of leading economic indicators rose a record 4.2 per cent in April and was the second consecutive monthly advance. The report was considered strong evidence the recession has bottomed out.

Lottery Drawings Changed

ALBANY
New York State will hold its regular weekly drawings on Thursdays between 4 and 4:30 p.m. rather than on Fridays. The first Thursday drawing will be held on June 5 at 4 p.m. in the West Capitol Park in Albany.

The change in the drawing day and time is being made to draw greater attention to the winning numbers each week. The Lottery hopes that it will reduce the number of unclaimed prizes.

Attica Inmate Tells Of Trooper's Threat

BUFAFO, N.Y. (UPI) — A former inmate said Wednesday a state trooper "was threatening me with a rifle, telling me I was going to die" after lawmen put down the bloody 1971 Attica prison rebellion.

New York Has Chance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss, while expressing some reservations over the suitability of Madison Square Garden, says New York City "is a do-able deal" as host for the party's 1976 convention.

Strauss and 15 members of the Democratic Site Selection Committee continue a two-day visit to the city today as they evaluate whether New York or

Los Angeles should be the site for the convention.

The committee members attended a breakfast briefing today given by Metropolitan Transportation Authority Chairman David Yonich and planned later to tour hotel facilities, visit police headquarters, take a helicopter ride over the city and go to a luncheon given by Gov. Hugh Carey.

Kenneth Hess.
The trial was recessed today, with further activity not scheduled again until Monday.

Colvin said under cross examination that four corrections officers and the trooper questioned him twice Sept. 13, 1971 — the day the riot ended. He said he was forced to crawl from one yard of a prison to another.
"They pushed me in a room and I was told to sign something," he said. "He (the trooper) was telling me I was going to die."
Colvin said he saw Stroble and five or six other armed inmates escort two other prisoners from a yard of the prison after a "commotion" during the rebellion. He said one of the inmates being escorted from the yard was Schwartz, but that he could not identify the other man.
The former inmate testified that Stroble was armed with two "Arabian swords," carrying one in his hand and the other at his waist. Colvin said the other escorts were armed with officer's sticks and sharp instruments.

"How do you know I was there?" Stroble asked.
"How do I know? You were leading them into the building," Colvin said.

RESPECTABLE: (Q.) My boy friend and I went out drinking and got drunk. Now I am pregnant. His father is my father's boss and they were pleased when we started dating. But they won't like this.

No one knows I am pregnant but my doctor and my best friend. Both have told me to tell my parents. But they are respectable people and have brought me up that way, and I've always tried to live that way.

I'm beginning to show, and my mother has noticed. She says she's going to put me on a diet. Please help me, fast.—Can't Hide It in New York

(A.) Your doctor and your girl friend have given you the precise advice you need—tell your parents. Follow it. They brought you up to be a respectable girl. But they did not tell you that if you got into trouble they would refuse to help you. They won't refuse. You will be surprised at how much help they will be. Tell them today.

FRIEND: (Comment) This girl wrote to you that she found no friends at church. Actually, if she looked, she found the most valuable friend of all—God.

Maybe she can't take Him to a dance, or talk with Him on the telephone about the latest news at school, but He'll always be there when she needs Him. She can talk to Him about anything and He'll listen.

He is the best friend she'll find anywhere, no matter how hard she searches.—Positive in Pennsylvania.

Lebanon . . . a Country on the Brink of Civil War

By United Press International

The latest outbreak of street fighting in Beirut has its roots in the flight of 100,000 Palestinians to Lebanon after the creation of Israel in 1948.

From their ranks, 20 years later, came the core of the Palestinian guerrilla movement, the fuse that ignited the country's explosive political situation.

The guerrillas' current clashes with rightwing Lebanese nationalists have left hundreds dead or injured and the country with three different governments in less than a month.

The newest cabinet, headed by former Premier Rashid Karami, called for an end to the violence that has brought the country to the brink of civil war.

The fighting died down, at least temporarily, but pessimistic diplomats noted five truces have been arranged — and broken — within the last week.

Lebanon, an anomaly in the Moslem Arab world, is roughly half Christian and half Moslem and the two communities share power. The nation of 3 million is the militarily weakest of Israel's Arab neighbors.

Since independence in 1944, the Christians have tried to keep Lebanon out of the Arab-Israeli conflict. The Moslems, who generally favor a more active role in the conflict, have gone along, mindful of Lebanon's military weakness.

The two sides may have worked out their differences if left alone, but the presence of the Palestinians radicalized the two camps.

The recent clashes between the guerrillas and members of the rightwing Phalangist party center on the operations of the commando movement.

The Phalangists, mainly Christians, want the guerrillas brought under strict Lebanese control to end retaliatory raids by Israel. The guerrillas, mainly Moslems, charge the Phalangists are trying to break up the commando movement.

The guerrillas began using Lebanon in 1968 as a base for staging strikes into Israel after the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

In 1969, the Lebanese army first clashed with the guerrillas in an effort to control their activities and halt Israeli retaliatory attacks.

The fighting became entangled with local issues and resulted in a seven-month political crisis during which Lebanon was without a government.

The Cairo agreement of October, 1969, ended the fighting and gave the Palestinians the right to operate on a limited scale in the south.

The second serious clash between the army and the commandos erupted in May, 1973, after guerrillas kidnaped three Lebanese soldiers and the army went in to get them back.

Tension between Lebanon's right and leftwing communities intensified. Another government resigned.

Last April, a bus carrying 27 Palestinians through a Christian suburb of Beirut was ambushed and all aboard were killed. The next day, heavy fighting broke out between the Palestinians and Phalangist militiamen.

The truce ending the clashes was shortlived. Last week, the citizens of Beirut awoke again to the sounds of mortars, rockets and bombs thundering across the city. This time, leftwing groups joined the Palestinians.

The country was without a government following the resignation earlier this month of Premier Rashid Solh.

President Suleiman Franjeh appointed Lebanon's first military government to establish order — but protests by Moslem leaders forced it to resign 70 hours later. There was open talk of civil war.

Franjeh, bowing to Moslem demands, Wednesday appointed Karami premier-designate. Karami, 53, the country's most influential Moslem leader, called on both Christians and Moslems to rebuild Lebanon "with love."

Freed By Laotians

U.S. Marine Sgts. Donald E. Wilburn (L) and Roger Murphy enjoy a smoke along with civilian communications technician William Darden (R) after Laotian student demonstrators and Communist soldiers yielded control of the U.S. government complex and freed them after they were trapped for a week. (UPI)

U.S. Still Evacuating Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — U.S. officials worked under the eyes of Communist police today at an American compound freed by leftwing student demonstrators.

Some empty American homes were looted. At one residence outside the city, Laotians loaded furniture into a taxi backed up to the front door.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Christian Chapman met with leaders of the coalition government, but details of the talks were not disclosed.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said there are now 182 American officials and dependents still in Laos, down from about 850 last week. In addition, there are about 111 other Americans, including newsmen, tourists and businessmen.

The spokesman said some of those remaining would leave later in the day aboard a scheduled commercial flight. Most of the Americans flown out last week left on chartered aircraft.

Communist police stood guard inside the U.S. Agency for International Development compound as officials returned to their desks to work out the final details for ending the American presence in Laos.

Students evacuated the compound Wednesday, freeing two American Marines and a civilian technician trapped inside for a week. The presence of the Communist police, who refused to leave, violated an eight-point agreement that stipulated the compound would be left to the Americans.

Under the agreement, the Americans agreed to end all AID operations in Laos by June 30, turn over millions of dollars in AID equipment to the Laotians, and reimburse Laotian AID employees for missed back pay.

Communist troops guarded the gate of an American housing complex on the outskirts of Vientiane. But some of the 143 homes inside could be seen with doors wide open and debris littered outside.

Most of the Americans had packed up their household goods and locked them inside a gymnasium at the complex before leaving.

At a house adjoining the compound, newsmen saw a taxi back up to the front door and Laotians busily load up furniture.

The U.S. decision to reduce the American presence in Laos followed weeks of increasing Communist control over the military and the government, accompanied by leftist anti-American demonstrations.

Sanford Enters Dem Race

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Declaring it his duty to challenge George Wallace and "show the nation that the South stands for more than the politics of fear," former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina today entered the race for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

Sanford, now president of Duke University, made his declaration at a news conference after months of campaign preparation. In a 17-page statement, he said his effort would be to "reinstatement the American Revolution."

"I promise a bold campaign and a bold administration, determined to put into practice again the radical promise of the American Revolution, determined to talk sense and issues openly and candidly, pledged to make the government join the people, to put people first in all our affairs and aspirations," the 58-year-old Sanford said.

Referring to the Alabama governor, who is expected to make his own formal announcement soon, Sanford said: "My mission in life is not to eliminate the George Wallace from the political scene. However, I came up at the same time in similar climate, region and crucial time, and it is my responsibility to challenge him."

"I expect to be running for the presidency with a positive program," Sanford said, "but I have a duty also to show the nation that the South stands for more than the politics of fear."

Sanford, who came to political prominence in North Carolina as Wallace was rising in Alabama in the 1960's, is regarded as one of the first "New South" Democrats who abandoned the party's traditional reliance on segregationist politics in that region.

Sanford and Wallace have been in political conflict before. In 1972, Sanford's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination was effectively demolished when Wallace trounced him in the North Carolina primary.

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations gathered in Brussels today to debate the damage to the alliance by recession, Mediterranean upheavals and the Communist conquest of Indochina.

The two-day summit meeting, opening today at NATO headquarters in the Belgian capital, was highlighted by President Ford's European diplomatic debut.

Premiers and foreign ministers met behind-the-scenes in private talks swirling around the summit's fringes. Most diplomats expected the closed-door talks to produce more results than the formal summit meeting.

NATO Secretary General Joseph Luns urged Ford Wednesday to reaffirm the importance of the Atlantic Alliance and dispel "uncertainties" in Western Europe over the strength of America's commitment.

The President, arriving in Brussels on the eve of the summit, said he would assure America's allies that "our commitment...will not falter" in the post-Indochina era.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt was expected to stress the damage of recession and inflation to Western society and NATO's ability to pay its defense bills.

Other leaders were worried about the dispute over Cyprus between two NATO nations, Greece and Turkey, and the move to the left by Portugal, another member of the alliance.

NATO defense ministers who met in Brussels last week heard reports that the military alliance's entire southern flank was "worrying" about the developments in Portugal and Cyprus.

It was the second NATO summit in a year and the third since the West's "grand alliance" was formed 26 years ago.

President Nixon came to Brussels in 1974 — his last trip abroad — to sign an "Atlantic Declaration" aimed at reviving the alliance and lessening U.S.-European differences over the Middle East conflict.

Most analysts said the economic and energy crises have brought the Atlantic partners closer together. But the influential Times of London said NATO still needs "a renewal of faith in itself."

Gen. Vasco Gonçalves, prime minister of Portugal's leftwing military regime, planned to confer with Ford, Schmidt and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson during his stay in Brussels.

There was speculation about

Ford pressing the NATO leaders to establish a relationship between the alliance and Spain, which is treated as an outcast by many European nations.

But Luns said there was no chance of the United States risking sure rejection by pleading for full Spanish membership in the defense alliance.

Weeks of reassurances on both sides of the Atlantic preceded Ford's trip to Brussels, but the remarks failed to dispel all concerns about America's steadfastness as an ally.

"Official protestations notwithstanding, the Europeans need to be persuaded that they can still count on the Americans," the London Economist said.

'Mail Letters for Less' Judge Recommends

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Out of every dime you spend to mail a letter, two cents goes to subsidize junk mailers and other commercial users of the postal system, says the Postal Rate Commission's chief administrative law judge.

Judge Seymour Wenner Wednesday said individuals are paying more than their fair share for letters and recommended cutting the price of a letter from 10 cents to 8 cents.

He also recommended cutting post cards from 8 cents to a nickel and raising rates for air mail and other classes of postage to reflect the actual cost of handling.

"The Postal Service has become a tax-collecting agency," Wenner said, "collecting money from first-class mailers to distribute to other favored classes."

"Every time a person pays 10 cents to mail a first-class letter he is contributing almost two cents to pay the cost of other services."

An administrative law judge holds hearings and makes recommendations, in this case to the Rate Commission, which will make its own findings to the Postal Service board of governors. The board can then make changes only by unanimous vote.

Wenner also recommended the airmail post card be reduced from 11 cents to 10, but that air mail be increased from 13 cents an ounce to 15, the third-class bulk mailing rate be raised by 7 percent and parcel post increased by 67 percent, along with lesser increases for other classes of mail.

A spokesman said it is likely the rate panel might take two to three months to draft its recommendations.

In response to Wenner's findings, the Postal Service said:

"We are concerned that this initial decision proposes to apportion postal costs in ways that will severely impair the economic health of the postal system."

"We are also concerned about the impact of the law judge's proposed rates, especially on parcel post, newspapers and magazines."

The mail service has been losing money for years, both as a federal and now a semi-private business. It is expected to run into the red by more than $820 million in the current fiscal year, a spokesman said.
